A New Neighbor on the Block For Three Cement Firms

By Jon Powers

CEMENTON

A sign along Route 9W just north of the Ulster-Greene County line describes Cementon as "The Gateway to Pollution."

Several hundred yards down the highway, another sign—caked with cement dust reads:

"This community of ours is being treated unfairly by filthy cement air pollution which is ruining homes, nature's beauty and degrading property value. Why aren't these companies stopped. Is it because of their wallets paying fines. Token promises or excuses will never stop pollution. Aggressive action must be taken."

See Editorial on Page 6

Cementon didn't stumble on its name by chance. Since the first cement plant was built there in 1899, the 600 residents of the hamlet have literally lived and breathed cement dust. Houses, lawns, trees and cars are dusted white; the sky appears permanently gray.

Now, there is every indication that there will be a new neighbor on the block: a 1.2 million kilowatt nuclear power plant proposed by the Power Authority of the State of New York (PASNY). And it appears that at least some residents of the tiny hamlet feel that an atomic power facility can't be too much worse than the cement plants.

The proposed Cementon site is located less than two miles north of the Ulster County line, on property owned by the LeHigh Portland Cement Co. LeHigh's huge Alsen manufacturing plant is located about one-half mile north of the site; Alpha Portland Cement Co. has an equally large facility about one-quarter mile to the south. Two miles to the north is a third cement plant operated by Marquette Cement Manufacturing Co.

The Cementon site—with about 5,000 feet of frontage on the Hudson River—was one of two considered by PASNY. The other site—located near Athens in Greene County—was greeted by strong objections from anti-nuclear and environmental groups and many local government officials. Although, by comparison, the objections voiced by Cementon residents were less strenuouus, PASNY officials denied at a meeting Tuesday in Catskill that they chose what could amount to the path of least resistance.

Their ecological abuses notwithstanding, the three multi-million dollar cement plants in the Town of Catskill have provided much-needed employment and a substantial tax base for the area. PASNY officials have assured residents that rock-blasting activities at the nearby quarries wouldn't have any impact on the atomic plant and that the two activities can coexist quite peacefully.

All three cement plants were built between 1899 and 1915, increasing in size and production to meet the demands for new roads and buildings throughout the country. Cementon itself didn't exist by name until early this century, and today consists of a few narrow lanes and less than 100 modest private homes, most built with weekly paychecks from the three nearby cement facilities.

Although Cementon residents—who face the very real prospect of a nuclear power plant within a mile of their community—haven't by any means risen in unanimous protest against the proposal, there will likely be others who will take up the fight to stop PASNY's plans. Several hundred thousand people live within a 30-mile radius of the proposed site—an area that includes the cities of Kingston, Poughkeepsie and Hudson and most of Ulster and Dutchess Counties—and many of those who have bitterly opposed plans to locate up to four atomic facilities in the Town of Lloyd must face the prospect that there are now even more immediate plans to build a nuclear plant just a few miles farther away.

'Back Yard' Residents Voice Mixed Reactions

By Matt Spireng

CEMENTON

A nuclear power plant might make turning on the lights a bit less expensive, but the idea of having a nuclear plant virtually in their back yards does not seem to turn on residents of this southern Greene County community or those in the neighboring Ulster County community of West Camp.

I'm sick over it. Let's face it, we don't want it," commented Mrs. Angeline Thorne of Cementon when questioned in a random Freeman survey of area residents concerning their reaction to the news that the Power Authority of the State of New York (PASNY) will seek approval to construct a 1.2 million kilowatt nuclear power plant in Cementon.

Indicating a concern about radiation from the plant, Mrs. Thorne said she lives onlY a short distance from the proposed plant site.

It's almost on top of us," said Mrs. Stella Pavlovich of Cementon, who explained that her home is only a half mile from the proposed site. "We're really not in favor of it. We're wondering what will happen to the value of our home," she said.

"I have three children. I don't know if they'll settle in this area, but who knows, maybe we'll all have to move out," said a Cementon housewife who refused to be identified. She, too, expressed concern about radiation.

But not all those surveyed were opposed to the construction of a nuclear power plant near their homes.

"I'm all for it; at least this will create some jobs," said Cementon resident John Kiebart Jr. "I'm going to build a new house here, as a matter of fact," asserted Kiebart, who expressed no concern over possible dangers from the plant.

Miss Karen Tratnach of Cementon, who was once opposed to nuclear plants for safety reasons, changed her mind last year when she saw a film on nuclear plants while a high school student. "What's the difference if we have three cement plants or a power plant in the area?" she said.

I'm not particularly crazy about having a plant of this type here, but by the same token I'm aware of the need for electric power," said Mrs. Patrick Nezich of Cementon.

A West Camp man who predicted "a lot of hard feelings before this is over" and who declined to be identified, also said he recognizes the need for electric power. "But putting the power plant in our area won't help us; the power will go to New York City," he said.

"We don't like it at all. It isn't going to do us any good," said Mrs. Dorothy Markle of West Camp, who expressed concern about radiation and a possible decline in the property values in the area.

CEMENT PLANT LOOMS OVER SITE.
(Freeman photos by Kruh)

I'm not to happy about it," commented William P. Goff of West Camp, a foreman at one of the cement plants in the area near the nuclear plant site. "For one thing, if what they say is true, after the power plant gets built there can't be any blasting within a three mile radius. There are three cement plants in a three mile area. It will mean 800 or 900 men out of work," he said.

Mrs. Thelma Wrolsen of West Camp, explaining that her son works for an upstate power company and has knowledge about nuclear plants, said she is "not really concerned" about construction of a nuclear plant nearby.

Whatever the concerns of the residents, they will apparently have some time to wait before they find out if they are correct; a PASNY spokesman indicated that completion of the plant would not come before 1983.

Equal Rights Amendment In Hands of State Voters

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The voters will decide the fate of an Equal Rights Amendment to the state constitution, passed in the Senate after more than five hours of debate to complete the final legislative step in the twoyear process.

The vote Wednesday night came after the lawmakers rejected a last-minute attempt to delay the amendment by changing its wording, a move that would have required further legislative action.

Lt. Gov. Mary Anne Krupsak, who presided over the Wednesday vote, said she was "gratified that the senators saw their responsibility not to stifle continuing discussion of this important area of civil rights."

Senate Majority Leader Warren M. Anderson, in closing the lengthy debate, predicted that "In the year 2000, the only piece of legislation that will be remembered about 1975 will be this one."

Supporters of the amendment say that approximately 200 laws will be affected if the resolution is passed. The proposal would prohibit denying equal rights on the basis of sex.

The Senate, in a 16-42 vote, rejected a proposal that would have amended the state ERA and, in effect, sidetracked the resolution for several years.

Sen. Linda Winikow, D-Spring Valley, the main Senate sponsor, said, "Nothing in the Equal Rights Amendment interferes with the relationship of human beings toward each other."

Sen. Fred J. Eckert, R-Rochester, saying it was necessary to "proceed cautiously," led the floor debate against the proposal. He introduced a proposal which would have amended the ERA so exceptions could be made if there was "a compelling justification."

Eckert said the change was needed because the ERA "leaves no middle ground for reasonable distinctions." Had the proposal passed, it would have been at least 1977 before the ERA could reach voters.

Senate Minority Leader Manfred Ohrenstein called the debate "an historic occasion for New York State." He said, "The people should be allowed to decide" the final outcome.

Mrs. Barbara French, of Rensselaer, a member of Operation Wakeup which was trying to drum up last minute opposition, said "this involves the very thread of life. We won't quit now."

City Rebuffed on Fluoridation

KINGSTON

Gov. Hugh L. Carey has rejected the Common Council's protest against mandatory fluoridation of the city's water supply and, adding insult to injury, has ignored the aldermen's stated reason for their opposition: freedom of choice.

Judah Gribetz, counsel for the governor, in a letter to City Clerk Louis F. DeCicco on May 6, acknowledges the Council's resolution of April 1, but cities a "total lack of scientific evidence to indicate that any harmful side effects result from drinking fluoridated water."

Gribetz concludes by making it perfectly clear that Carey still supports a program of fluoridating the water supply of some 4.9 million upstate residents. "Gov. Carey and the New York State Department of Health strongly favor fluoridation of all public water supplies as a politive health benefit for the people of New York," Gribetz wrote.

"I don't like it," said Alderman Peter J. Mancuso (D-12th Ward) who along with Alderman Donald E. Quick (D-Sixth Ward) sponsored the legislation against fluoridation that was unanimously passed by the Council. The Council resolution did not deal with the health aspects of the controversy, only with what the aldermen considered an issue of "freedom of choice."

"I feel as though the Common Council represents the people of the city of Kingston and if the people don't want it, we don't want it," Mancuso said.

"The issue is freedom of choice," Mancuso continued. "This is our constitutional right. He lost a vote as far as I'm concerned."

"He has no respect for the people's will," Quick said. "He's taking the advice of professional people. The fight is that its being mandated. Flu shots are available but you don't have to take them if you don't want to."

Quick revealed today that his wife, Kay, vice chairman of the County Democratic Committee, talked to the governor about the city's resolution against fluoridation during a recent women's conference with the chief executive in Albany. "His comment was that he'd talked to his medical people, doctors and dentists, and they said it was good," Quick said.

Although Mancuso thinks "further action by the city would be fruitless" after Carey's rejection of the Council's resolution, Quick suggests there might be some other (legal) recourse. "Maybe we could get a show cause order against the state if they tried to force it on us," Quick said. "I'm not sure of the legalities of it." Quick also suggested city residents write the governor.

Legislation on the governor's "public health care package" (fluoridation among them) is currently in committee in both houses of the state Legislature.

Footnote: While the city got no satisfaction from the governor, it did get the last word, to date. Gribetz's letter referred to a dosage of one part fluoride for every 100 parts of water. The standard dosage is one part per million. Clerk, DeCicco responded with a letter to Grigetz on May 13 with the observation that a one part per hundred dosage "could be deadly and at least create widespread serious illness."

Search for Kidnaped Students

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (UPI) — The Tanzanian government launched an air and ground search today for three American students and a Dutch woman kidnaped from a remote wildlife reserve by 40 uniformed gunmen.

Aircraft roared over Lake Tanganyika in northwestern Tanzania and police patrols combed the rugged jungles along the shore in pursuit of the mysterious gunmen and their four captives.

The raiders, armed with submachine guns, rifles and pistols, attacked the U.S. sponsored Gombe Stream Reserve by boat Monday night, overwhelmed the staff and then seized the captives.

The gunmen, who said they came from neighboring Zaire, forced the captives to board boats and escaped onto the 420-mile-long lake, the fourth largest in the world.

Primatologist Jane Goodall, who runs the reserve for Stanford University, escaped with the rest of about 30 staff members and students after unsuccessfully fighting the raiders.

Stanford University identified the kidnaped students as Barbara Smuts, 24, of Ann Arbor, Mich., Carrie Jane Hunter, 21, of Atherton, Calif., and Kenneth Smith, 22, of Garden Grove, Calif.

A university spokesman said the Dutch woman was Emilie Bergman, an administrative assistant at the research station near the lakeside town of Kigoma.

Iranian government seeks assassins of two U.S. officers. Story on page 40.

Dr. Goodall, a British writer and expert on chimpanzees, conducted research into primate behavior at the world-renowned reserve. Stanford students interested in primatology spend six months studying at the center.

A Stanford spokesman said the Tanzanian government was "doing everything possible as are the American and Dutch embassies" to free the captives.

U.S. embassy sources said the 10 remaining students have been taken from the camp to the town of Kigoma, 12 miles to the south, for safety and questioning about the Monday night attack.

Diplomatic sources said the raiders might be opponents of the government of Zaire President Mobuto Sese Seko. Zaire is on the opposite side of the 12,700-square-mile lake.

In Washington, the State Department said the U.S. embassy in Tanzania is trying to determine the identity of the gunmen and the reasons for the raid.

A State Department spokesman said the U.S. embassy in Kinshasa is investigating whether the group had crossed the border into Tanzania from Zaire.

New State Police Head Named, but...

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Gov. Hugh L. Carey has named a New York City Police Department veteran, William G. Connelie, as the new state police superintendent.

Carey's announcement Wednesday came as no surprise. It followed several news reports that Connelie, who has spent 25 years on the New York City force, was the leading contender for the $47,800-a-year post. But Republicans were sure to make political advantage of the appointment of a New York City man to head the upstate-oriented police force.

Hours before the official announcement from the Democratic governor's office, Richard M. Rosenbaum, chairman of the state Republican party, issued a news release attacking the choice as "an affront to 3,400 professional members of the state police."

Connelie, the GOP chief said, "would have little insight with reference to the unique operation of an upstate-oriented police agency."

"You can't tell me there is not a single trooper among the hundreds of men in state police work who is capable of running the organization," Rosenbaum said.

Connelie, whose appointment is subject to approval by the Senate, would replace William E. Kirwan, who, at 62, announced last Wednesday that he would retire June 25 after 39 years with the troopers.

Kirwan was appointed by former Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and has headed the agency since Aug. 4, 1967.

Connelie is 54. He is an assistant chief of the New York police and holds 13 citations for bravery, the governor's announcement said.

A news release distributed by the governor's office made no allusions to Rosenbaum's charges:

"This administration is working to restore a sense of security, of justice and order in every corner of the state. We are working in the courts, in the corrections system, in all parts of the criminal justice system. Mr. Connelie will be a part of this process and will work to improve the performance of the state police."

Connelie holds a bachelor's degree in criminal justice from John Jay College and is enrolled in the college's graduate school. He was a navigator for the Army Air Corps in World War II and retired as a major from the U.S. Army Reserve.

He and his wife have four daughters and live in Queens.

Hinchey Continues Rap on C-H

SAUGERTIES — Assemblyman Maurice D. Hinchey (D-101st), continued his attack against Central Hudson and its former board chairman, John Vilkie, today despite denials by the utility concerning the alleged connection between Vilkie and the law firm that collected almost $325,000 in fees from the firm last year.

Central Hudson says that Wilkie is not an attorney and has no connection with the firm of Gould and Wilkie, either "personal or business."

"It's Wilkie's father's law firm," Hinchey responded on Wednesday. "His father was a vice president and director of Central Hudson. Wilkie continues to use the law firm. It's in his back pocket."

Hinchey charges that there is a "continual and unbroken relationship dating back to the turn of the century" between the Wilkie family and Central Hudson.

"They (Central Hudson) freely admit that (Theodore) Carlson's partner in Gould and Wilkie," Hinchey said. "That's proof enough that their long-standing relationship is continuing." Carlson is Wilkie's successor as chairman of the board and chief executive officer.

Central Hudson still maintains that there was no relationship between Wilkie and Gould and Wilkie. The recently retired Wilkie is not an attorney; he came to Central Hudson some 50 years ago as a statistician

Central Hudson also states that Carlson will not render legal services to Central Hudson nor share in any fees Gould and Wilkie gets from legal services rendered to the utility.

Hinchey still considers the situation a "conflict of interest" and wants a complete investigation of Central Hudson. He also wants laws passed prohibiting executives from hiring firms they are associated with.

Superintendent Is Named

KYSERIKE — The Rondout Valley Board of Education has named James J. O'Connell of Rockport, Mass., to be the superintendent of schools.

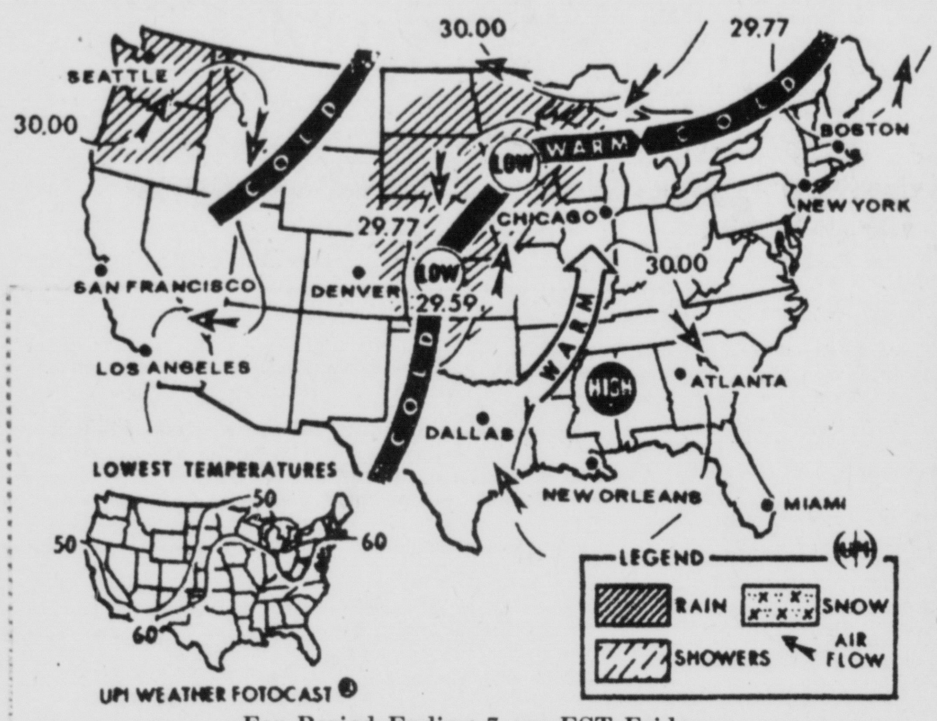

O'Connell, 38, will begin a three-year term July 1. He succeeds Robert A. Robertaccio, who will retire June 30.

O'Connell is presently completing his residency requirement for a doctorate in educational administration from the Harvard University Graduate School of Education. He received his masters' degree in education from the State University College at New Paltz in 1963.

O'Connell's experience since 1960 includes a position as an elementary teacher in the Harrison, N.Y. public schools, and as an elementary principal in the Darien, Conn. public schools. He served as an assistant superintendent and later superintendent of the Carmel, N.Y. Central School district from 1968 to 1973.

In 1974 O'Connell received the Worth McClure Scholarship for Graduate Studies at Harvard University, awarded by the American Association of School Administrators. He has been an active member of a number of national professional organizations and has been employed as a consultant to a number of national educational groups.

O'Connell and his wife, the parents of five children ranging in age from 5 to 14 years, intend to reside in the Rondout Valley School district.

He'd Better Get One

If Joe Namath doesn't really use a Hamilton Beach popcorn popper he had better get one fast. The Federal Trade Commission published a set of new actual-use requirements in the Federal Register which could eventually force a lot of celebrities to eat, drink, drive, wear and otherwise use the products they extol in print and broadcast ads. 105,000 Get Letters From Detroit Automakers

DETROIT (UPI) — In the past two days, Detroit automakers began mailing letters to more than 105,000 Americans telling them their cars may be unsafe or pollution-prone.

Such letters follow a long line of recalls, that some industry officials say is inevitable in building a highly complex product.

Since 1966, the U.S. auto industry has sent out more than 20 million letters of recall.

In 1974, domestic and foreign automakers found defects serious enough to order the recall of nearly three million vehicles. The previous year the figure was seven million —5.8 million cars by General Motors Corp. alone.

Some automotive executives think the industry gets a bad rap for its recall campaigns, partly because it is one of the few industries that publicly announces each recall and because defects involved are actually found on only a small number of the cars.

"We're not actually as prone to defects as people are led to believe by all the publicity," says D.E. Smith, manager of service engineering at the Ford Motor Co. "We make the public disclosures even though the law doesn't require them because it helps to reinforce our attempt to get the cars brought in for service."

In 1974, Ford recalled 257,000 cars and trucks. Of those, an estimated 13.4 percent actually had defects that needed correction.

"We recalled all those vehicles to find out just over 34,000 with defects," Smith said. "That's less than 1 percent of the cars we sold in 1974."

GM announced three separate recall campaigns Wednesday involving 50,000 current-model cars. Of that number, about 3,100 Chevrolet Camaros and Novas, Pontiac Firebirds and Buick Apollos and Skylarks have a potential defect that could lead to a loss of steering control.

The problem was caused by an assembly line goof — insufficient tightening of the steering shaft clamp bolt. If the bolt loosened, the steering shaft could separate, leaving the driver unable to steer the car.

"We discovered that problem in the plant during a computerized audit that showed that the proper torque wasn't applied by machines in two plants," said John Bates, director of GM's Service Section. "By notifying the people before it actually becomes a problem, it can be corrected in less than 15 minutes."

The other two recalls announced Wednesday by GM involved 16,000 Pontiac Venturas, Oldsmobile Omegas and Buick Apollos and Skylarks with accelerator problems and 31,000 Camaros equipped with the 350 cubic-inch engine and air conditioning that need a new fan blade assembly.

A day earlier, Ford said 45,000 German-built Capris sold in this country may develop a brake problem after 20,000 miles and Chrysler Corp. was ordered to recall 11,000 current-model cars that could not meet California's tough emission standards.

'Ifs' Could Push Gasoline to $1 a Gallon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Should all the "ifs" in the energy discussion come true in the next year or two, Americans could be paying a dollar a gallon for gasoline.

But that covers a lot of "ifs": if Congress enacts a tax increase, if the President's price-tariff-tax plan moves ahead on schedule, if guesses on the foreign oil market prove accurate.

"If you put all those together, you can get that gasoline price up to a dollar or so," Victor Rasheed, who heads one Eastern affiliate of the National Congress of Petroleum Retailers, said.

The estimates of gasoline prices throughout the nation average around 55 cents a gallon for "regular" and 60 cents for "premium."

Taking 55 cents as a starter, add the President's plan to impose a $3 per barrel tariff on imported oil. (The first dollar is in effect. White House sources said Wednesday the second probably will be imposed June 1.) With the "ripple" effect that has on uncontrolled domestic oil, this adds five or six cents to gasoline.

If foreign oil producers push their prices up another $2 a barrel, as some officials of the Federal Energy Administration fear, that adds five or six more cents.

That pushes "regular" to, say, 66 cents.

Add the FEA estimate of the impact of lifting price controls on domestic oil: Six cents more a gallon, spread over one to two years.

Add the gasoline tax proposed in the bill approved by the House Ways and Means Committee. That tax starts with a three-cent increase Jan. 1, and adds anywhere from zero to 20 cents more, depending on consumption. Only a 3.1 percent increase in consumption, compared with the base year of 1973, would "trigger" the additional 20 cents.

That makes the gallon of "regular" 95 cents. If it were "premium," it would be $1.

It may be that not all these energy proposals will take effect. Some see parts of Ford's plan and parts of the main congressional plan as alternatives, not to be used at the same time.

Flash Flooding, Heavy Snow

By United Press International

Floodwaters sloshed six feet deep in portions of Cleveland Wednesday in the wake of torrential spring rains. But there was no semblence of spring in the Rockies, where a howling blizzard closed highways, stranded travelers and threatened livestock.

Flash flooding hit Cleveland's East Side. It stalled motorists, prompted some residents to leave their homes and submerged streets under three to six feet of water.

The water poured through open windows of abandoned cars, and some autos floated throgh flooded freeway underpasses in Cleveland's suburban Euclid.

No injuries were attributed to the flooding, which knocked out about 800 telephones in the Cleveland area.

Thunderstorms roamed much of the Midwest, a carryover from Tuesday night storms that killed seven persons, most of them victims of winds and lightning.

Heavy snows, whipped by 75 mile an hour winds, blocked Interstate 80 between Salt Lake City, Utah, and Cheyenne, Wyo., for hours, stranding trucks, buses and cars.

The storm also threatened newborn lambs and calves.

"We've got about a foot of snow, our sheep are out on the hill and there's a hell of a wind blowing," rancher Russ Myers of Evanston, Wyo., said. "Everybody here is in about the same shape."

Dairy farmers in Millard County, Utah, reported they were unable to milk thousands of cows or even get to animals on range land to feed them. More than two feet of snow was on the ground in the area.

Many rural homes in central Utah were without power Wednesday. Utility crews, bolstered by outside help, restored power to all towns in the storm-blanketed area.

Eighteen inches of snow bogged Lander, Wyo., and more than a foot of snow socked Park City, Utah. Far to the south, 4 inches of snow blanketed Flagstaff, Ariz., and winds up to 70 miles an hour whipped the state. Fifteen vehicles were involved in minor acccidents in a dust storm on a highway near Coolidge, Ariz.

Gov. Carey Signs Malpractice Bill

ALBANY, N.Y (UPI) — Gov. Hugh L. Carey Wednesday signed into law the medical malpractice compromise bill.

The plan would require the 200 insurance companies writing liability coverge in the state to participiate in an underwriting pool to make malpractice insurance available if coverage is not available from individual companies after July 1.

A so-called malpractice insurance crisis was created when the Argonaut Insurance Co. of Menlo Park, Calif. — which offered coverage for 90 percent of the doctors and most of the hospitals in the state — announced it would have to increase its rates as much as 600 percent or go out of the business at the July 1 expiration of existing policies.

Noting that the problem is a national one, Carey said, "I firmly believe that this bill is the best possible remedy for the problem which could be reached at this time."

He said, "New York State can take pride in this legislation," but added, "This bill is not intended as the ultimate solution."

As well as creating the insurance underwriting pool, the plan sets up a 25-member panel, which would include 18 doctors and seven laymen, to investigate complaints of unprofessional conduct by doctors and would make a number of changes in the Tort Law.

...Frisco Doctors Say 'No'

By UPI

Strike-bound San Francisco area hospitals, some driven to the brink of bankruptcy, have offered to pay malpractice insurance premiums for the striking physicians if they will return to work.

But the offer was rejected immediately Wednesday by leaders of the three-week walkout. They said all but a few anesthesiologists, who walked off their jobs to protest soaring malpractice insurance premiums, would refuse to serve in operating rooms except for emergencies.

In Sacramento, Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy charged that "any shred of legitimacy" in the walkout was "stripped away by their refusal to return to work" despite the offer.

A resolution passed by strikers praised the offer but said it failed to deal with the problem.

"We felt we could not pass on such unconscionable increases to our patients then and we feel that we cannot condone the hospitals passing on these same increases to the same patients now."

The resolution again called for action in California's current special legislative session on the malpractice crisis.

Only emergency surgery has been performed in the 50 strikebound San Francisco area hospitals since May 1, when 200 anesthesiologists, backed up by many other physicians and the local medical society, left their jobs. Since then, 4,000 hospital workers in the area have been laid off and several hospitals have warned that the strike could bankrupt them. Officials say the hospitals are losing $300,000 a day.

The malpractice problem has grown to crisis proportions across the nation.

Memorial Day Services In Area

KINGSTON

The men and women who sacrificed their lives to preserve the freedoms guaranteed under the American Constitution will be honored in communities throughout Ulster County Monday during Memorial Day services and celebrations.

The day will include parades and memorial services conducted by veterans groups throughout the area. In addition, many businesses and most offices will be closed in observance of the legal holiday.

The biggest celebration will take place in KINGSTON. An eight division parade will step off from Kingston High School at 2 p.m. and proceed along Broadway, Albany Avenue, Clinton Avenue and North Front Street to Dietz Stadium. The reviewing stand will be set up at Broadway and Elmendorf Street.

Participating in Monday's parade will be the Kingston Musicians' Marching Band of Local 215 AFM, Kingston High School Band, Saugerties High School Band, Kingston Indians Drum and Bugle Corps, Sundowners Drum and Bugle Corps, M. Clifford Miller Junior High School Band, Continental Cadets Drum and Bugle Corps and the Troop 12 Indians Drum and Bugle Corps.

The Grand Marshall will be Sidney Lane, past chairman of the Kingston Veterans Association, which is sponsoring the day's activities.

Memorial services will be held at 1:30 p.m. at the Veterans Memorial Site in front of the old city hall on Broadway. Mayor Francis R. Koenig will present the memorial address and the Honor Guard from American Legion Post 150 will comprise the firing party.

Other communities that have Memorial Day services planned for Monday, and the schedule of events, include:

TOWN OF OLIVE—The parade, led by the Onteora Marching Band, will step off at 9 a.m. at the Lester Davis General Store on Route 28A, proceed to Peekamoose Road and then to the Olive Town Hall, where memorial services will be held. The main speaker will be county legislator Ernest J. Gardner (R-Dist. 5), a World War II veteran and Lieutenant Colonel (retired) in the Air Force Reserve. His theme will be, "The Challenge of Memorial Day." The services will conclude with the traditional firing squad salute and the playing of "Taps."

SAUGERTIES—Memorial services will begin at 9:30 a.m. Monday at the Veteran's Monument at the American Legion Home on Partition Street. The parade will begin there at 10 a.m. and proceed along John Street ot to the Main Street school, where colors will be raised and tributes made to deceased veterans. Sponsors of the day's activities have noted that all local organizations are invited to participate in the parade.

PORT EWEN—Three bands will lead the line of march when it steps off from the Grand Union on Route 9W at 10 a.m. and proceed to Riverview Cemetery. Memorial services at the cemetery will start at 10:30 a.m. The main speakers will be the two elementary students from the Anna Devine and Port Ewen Schools, who won this year's American Legion essay contest. Following the services, the parade will return to its starting point.

WOODSTOCK—The parade will form at 12 noon and proceed down Schoonmaker Lane to the Woodstock Cemetery, the Village Green and the American Legion Post Home. Memorial services will be held at both the cemetery and the Village Green.

STONE RIDGE—Two bands—the Rondout Valley High School Marching Band and the Ellenville Drum and Bugle Corps—will participate in the parade, which starts at 11 a.m. on Cottekill Road at the entrance to Ulster County Community College. The line of march will proceed to Route 209 to the town hall and the American Legion Post. Memorial services will be held at the Legion home.

NEW PALTZ—The parade will start at 10 a.m. on North Manheim Boulevard, and proceed along Main Street, North Front Street, Church Street, North Chestnut Street and back to Main Street before arriving at the Veterans Mounment, where services will begin at 10:30 a.m. The main speaker will be Rev. David Corlett of the New Paltz Reformed Church. Before the parade, individual memorial services will be held at the four cemeteries in New Paltz and Gardiner.

ROSENDALE—Brother C. Edward Quinn, a professor of biology at Manhattan College and a member of the New York City Bicentennial Commission, wll be the main speaker at memorial services to be held at the Veteran's Monument on Route 32 at 12 noon. The parade will begin at 11:30 a.m. at the Tillson Firehouse, and proceed down Route 213 to the monument.

In addition to the parades and ceremonies scheduled throughout the county Monday, the "50" Club of Kingston will hold its annual Memorial Day services at the Memorial Tablet at Cornell Park starting at 11 a.m. Major Rudolph Ehrenberg, assigned to the United States Military Academy at West Point, will be the guest speaker.

On Sunday, Memorial services will be held at the Dutch Reformed Church in Rhinebeck, which dates back to the Revolutionary War. The church will be decorated with Revolutionary War flags and markers honoring parishioners who died in the Revolution. Participants will be dressed in Continental Army uniforms and colonial dress. The services start at 11 a.m.

Most residents of the county will have the day off Modday to participate in services honoring America's war dead. All county offices will be closed for the day, except the Sheriff's Department, Ulster County Jail and Infirmary.

The Kingston Post Office and its branches will be closed Monday and there will be no deliveries. Holiday collections will be made, however, and the lobby of the main Post Office will be open from 6 a.m. to 2 p.m.

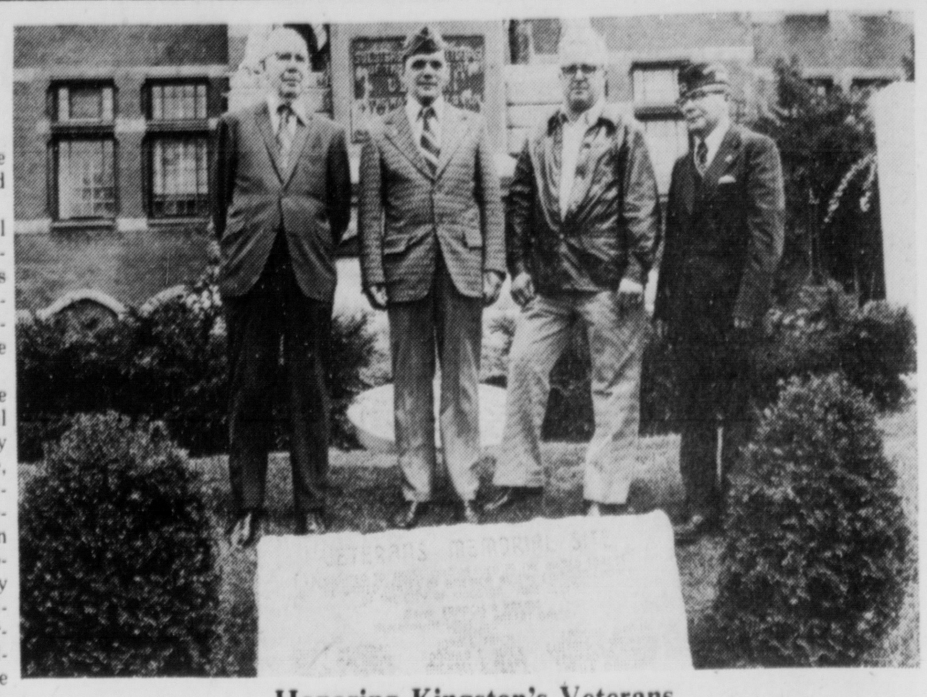

Schools in the Kingston Consolidated School District will be closed both Monday and Tuesday.

Local police agencies willbe out in full force over the weekend, anticipating the usually heavy holiday traffic. State police at Hurley have stated that their new "moving radar" units will be operating on an round-the-clock basis to deter and apprehend speeders. The Sheriff's Department will have all off-duty men riding road patrol during the weekend.

The National Safety Council estimates that up to 500 people will die, and as many as 24,000 others will suffer disabling injuries as a result of automobile accidents during the three-day holiday weekend.

Most businesses will be closed Monday, as well. Local Law No. 1, of 1968, enacted by the Ulster County Legislature, prohibits all unnecessary commercial and business establishements from operating on the holiday, unless they provide necessary services. Only such items as foods, medicines, drugs, gasoline and surgical instruments can be legally sold on Monday. And the law stipulates that every business that is open Memorial Day must close for 15 minutes during the time memorial services are held in that community or area.

Violators are subject to a maximum fine of $1,000 and a 30 day jail term.

Honoring Kingston's Veterans

Members of the Kingston Veterans Association gather at the Veterans Memorial Site in front of the old city hall prior to Memorial day services honoring Kingston's war dead. Ceremonies will be held at 1:45 p.m. Monday at the Veterans site, followed by the annual Memorial Day parade. Shown (L-R) are John Krueger, Richard Peters, Benjamin Gulnick and Tom Hughes. New York . . . 'Sell It to Arabs'

NEW YORK (UPI) — The third largest government in the Western hemisphere is about to go bankrupt.

New York City is the biggest, the best, the worst, the dirtiest, the cleanest, the most protected and the most unsafe. Its police force is bigger than the armies of 95 percent of the countries in the United Nations. Its subway system is bigger than Amtrak.

It's the richest city in the the world. And it's on the verge of going broke.

The federal government, the state of New York and the city's own vast financial community have refused to advance the city the money it needs to meet its debts.

Arthur Burns, chairman of the federal reserve board, said no "prudent man" would lend money to the city, and William Simon, secretary of the treasury, once suggested jokingly that the city be sold to the Arabs.

New York City's annual budget of $14.6 billion is bested only by the governments of the United States, over $300 billion, and Canada, at $28.8 billion, in this hemisphere. By comparison, California's budget is $11.3 billion; New York State's $10.4 billion; Argentina $7 billion; Venezuela $10 billion; Colombia $1.5 billion; and Brazil $11.3 billion.

Its residents pay the highest taxes in the United States. In addition to federal income taxes, state income taxes and city income taxes, the city levies an 8 percent sales tax, highest in the nation. The average income, including every man, woman and child, is $11,638.

In return, its citizens get more public services than any other city.

Manhattan Island was once bought for $24 worth of beads from the Indians, but the city's real estate is now valued at $82.5 billion.

The city has been living on borrowed money. For more than a decade its expenses have been rising by 8 percent a year, its income by 5 percent. To make up the difference, it borrowed money, and is now in hock by $5.1 billion.

By the end of June, $1.5 billion of that borrowed money must be paid back. The city doesn't have the money and doesn't know where to get it.

The credit market has dried up because of over-borrowing and the recession, and the mayor has been rebuffed in his appeals for help by Washington and Albany.

The city has 348,000 employes, more people than live in Wyoming. Most of them belong to unions which have rebuffed the mayor's attempts to cut their pay. He has pledged to cut their numbers instead. The 31,000 policemen and 12,500 firemen are among the nation's highest paid civil servants — pulling in salaries from $17,000 to $41,000 a year.

The police department is larger than two army divisions. The city has an air force of six police helicopters; a navy of 16 police launches, five fire boats, a tender and three special fire boats, plus a sanitation department fleet of sludge and garbage scows.

The city's subway system runs 7,200 trains daily, carrying 4 million passengers — more than Amtrak, the nationwide passenger rail network, carries in three months.

GOING OUT OF BUSINESS

In 1974 the city collected 3.3 million tons of garbage and picked up 51,000 derelict autos abandoned on the streets. It contains 320.38 square miles, of which only 41.44 are on the U.S. mainland. It has 6,123.5 miles of public streets and 37,692 acres of public parks.

The city's university system is one of the nation's finest and largest, with an open admissions policy and free tuition for undergraduates. Its public school system is the nation's largest and it operates more public hospitals than any other city.

In the first two months of this year, the city recorded 249 murders, 644 forcible rapes, 13,612 robberies, 6,493 aggravated assaults, 27,272 burglaries, 26,125 larcenies, and 11,432 motor vehicle thefts.

With an unemployment rate of 11.5 percent, New York has dropped about 20,000 city jobs, including 2,000 outright dismissals. Another 3,000 workers, including 525 police officers, will be fired by July.

Mayor Abraham D. Beame, a 69-year-old former accounting teacher, also wants to close 43 schools and four city hospitals, curtail garbage collections and severely slash a wide variety of municipal services.

And the mayor, who served for eight years as city comptroller, has yet to close a $641.5 million deficit in his proposed $12.8 billion budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

"There is not a doubt in my mind that New York City obligations will be met," Beame says gamely. "The question at issue is whether they will be met on time."

The city's financial woes, fiscal experts both in and out of government say, stem from several factors, chiefly the hard reality that while city expenditures rise by 8 percent a year, revenues grow at only 5 percent.

Impasse Is Declared In ESKA Negotiations

KINGSTON — The Educational Secretaries of the Kingston Area (ESKA) have formally filed a notice of impasse with the State Public Employe Relations Board following an apparent breakdown in negotiations with the Kingston Schools Consolidated Board of Education.

A spokesman for the secretary unit accused the school board of failure to comply with previously agreed upon bargaining procedures.

An impasse has also been declared between the board of education and the Civil Service Employes Association which represents custodial and cafeteria workers in the district. Contracts will expire June 30.

'Miracle in Massachusetts'

By UPI

Five colleges in Massachusetts are pulling off an academic miracle; Enriching offerings without spending extra money.

Dr. David B. Truman, president of Mount Holyoke College, in South Hadley, told about "The Five College" program in an interview.

Schools involved are Smith, Amherst, the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Hampshire College, and Mount Holyoke.

Students may sign up for courses at any of the schools — not just their own — without applying to the other schools, paying tuition to their bursars or going through other red tape.

"It probably couldn't happen anywhere unless the schools all were within 10 miles of one another," Dr. Truman said.

"Colleges farther apart would make such cooperation difficult."

There aren't any Five College sweat shirts and there isn't a Five College Frisbee team, but Dr. Truman wouldn't be surprised at anything new that crops up with Five College on it.

What holds the program together — literally — is the Five College bus system. It's free to Five College persons and gets them to class on time at neighboring colleges.

There are four weekday bus routes and two on weekends. No classes on Sunday but the students get a chance to use other Five College facilities — libraries, dining halls.

Dr. Truman said during the last academic year nearly 6,000 semester courses were taken away from the home campus. Fifty seven semester courses were taught by faculty of the home campus.

"Typically," Dr. Truman said, "A student won't take more than one course at another school during a semester."

What about grading? The teacher grades according to the system used at the school giving the course. It can be translated to conform to the home school's grading system, if different.

There are these other Five College services:

—Meal Interchange. Any Five College student need only present an ID proof of participation in a meal plan to the Food Service Office at another college to obtain lunch free.

—Five Lecture Fund.

—Five College Calender and Newsletter. The newsletter is quarterly and the calendar of events is monthly, listing rich offerings in lectures, concerts, art exhibits and other programs.

—Five College Radio.

Dr. Truman said the program of cooperation does not save the schools money, enabling them to reduce tuition.

"It has reduced the rate at which costs were going up," he said, "It has provided a way to enrich the academic program without costing more.

"No money changes hands. If we borrow a teacher from another school, for example, the home school pays."

Dr. Truman said informal student and faculty exchanges among Four Colleges have existed since the 1930s. Cooperation among the libraries was formalized in 1951 with the creation of the Hampshire Inter-Library Center.

Cementon Site

News that the State Power Authority is going ahead with plans to construct a nuclear plant at Cementon, practically on the Ulster County line, will be met with much chagrin in many local quarters. Atomic energy, on its face, seems that answer to the country's future needs, but the everpresent threat of an accident, with catastrophic results, is a gnawing fear that won't go away despite the assurances of many experts that it's safe. In fact, there are just as many experts who are against nuclear power plants as there are for them.

If the state's plans clear the remaining hurdles, we'll have one of these potentially dangerous facilities practically sitting in our own backyard — and it's an uncomfortable situation. Core meltdowns, leaks and any number of other potential hazards are factors this area will be exposed to, and essentially we are being told by the state that we'll have to just accept it, but maybe that's not entirely the case.

One of the hurdles the project faces is obtaining clearance from the Atomic Energy Commission, which has become chary of granting blanket approval because of popular opposition. We urge the AEC members to take a good, hard look at the Cementon project, which though situated in the Hudson Valley, is still too close to major population centers. Also, some members of congress are calling for a moratorium on N-plant constuction until safety factors and the problem of atomic waste disposal are satisfactorily solved.

What would seem a wise course for Congress to pursue is the invoking said moratorium and authorizing a crash program to develop alternate sources of energy, such as nuclear fusion rather than fission, harvesting the force from hydrogen rather than uranium. It would be safer and cheaper.

Imperiled Whale

A television documentary about whale research calls new attention to the gravely imperiled status of these sea mammals. This study concerned the white whale, one of the so-called great whale species in danger of extinction.

Conservation groups throughout the world recently joined in observing World Whale Day to arouse concern about this. To dramatize the situation they noted that, despite a United Nations mandate calling for a moratorium on whale killing, the great whale is slaughtered every 14 minutes on the average. That is mainly because Japan an Russia ignore the moratorium call. Somehow, those two nations must be persuaded to accept the evident fact that if the killing goes on at the present pace these mighty creatures of the deep may soon be gone for ever.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Graham Martin Was to Blame

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — President Ford's own files dispute his statements and confirm our charges about Ambassador Graham Martin's handling of the Vietnam evacuation.

After we reported that Martin had badly botched the evacuation effort, the President defended him. Martin did a "good job" and directed a "successful evacuation," said Ford.

This is not what the confidential White House records show. We have had access to some of these documents. We have also interviewed key people who were involved in the evacuation, including some of the refugees themselves.

The President outlined his objectives at a secret strategy session April 9 in the conference room next to his oval office. His first concern, he said, was to save "about 6,000 Americans now in South Vietnam."

But he also declared firmly: "A large number of South Vietnamese have worked for the U.S. at great personal peril. Roughly 175,000 to 200,000 will be the first to suffer . . . I think there's a moral responsibility for us to help those people who helped us."

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, according to the confidential minutes, stressed that the "removal must be handled so as to avoid panic." He reflected the views of his man in Saigon, the implacable Graham Martin, who kept dragging his heels.

A few senators, privy to the developments in Saigon, became alarmed over the slow pace of the evacuation. In response to their inquiries, the President invited the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to the White House on April 14 for a briefing, which he stressed "must be an executive (secret) session."

"Mr. President," pleaded Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., "could you order that every seat be filled on every outgoing plane?"

Ford said that Kissinger had already given Martin orders which "should achieve that."

"We felt the President should be sure through some agent other than Martin that your orders are being urgently carried out," interjected Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y. "Our first priority must be to bring every American out and such Vietnamese . . . as can be brought out."

"The orders that we have given will be carried out," the President promised. Then, referring to the Vietnamese, he pledged: "As far as I can, within the law, I'm going to do all I can to help those people . . ."

But it was too late; Martin had waited too long. He was unable to process all the Vietnamese who clamored to escape. The State Department, for example, wanted to cable Saigon a list of intellectuals who were vulnerable to Communist retaliation and should be rescued.

But Martin, incredibly, refused even to accept the list. He informed the State Department icily that the embassy was making the decisions and had matters in hand.

Meanwhile, on April 21, the Vietnamese who thronged outside the embassy to save their families were greeted with this poignant notice: "PETITIONS FOR RELATIVES. Due to the press of business, we have temporarily suspended acceptance of petitions for parents, brothers and sisters. DO NOT WAIT IN LINE IF YOU ARE HERE FOR THIS PURPOSE. We hope to be able to accept petitions for parents, brothers and sisters in the near future."

The next day, according to White House minutes, Kissinger reported that it was "not realistic to count on the release of large numbers of South Vietnamese."

There was little more President Ford could do except joke about the crisis. The confidential minutes quote him as telling about one man who "showed up with four wives."

"Which one do you want out?" he was asked. His quick response, said the President, was: "I want the youngest one."

There was nothing funny, however, about the scramble by desperate Vietnamese to get their loved ones on the exit petitions. The petitions provided spaces for the names of relatives. Refugees have sworn to us that U.S. embassy employes sold the spaces like carnival barkers.

This profiteering in human distress was done by the Vietnamese employes, seldom by the American staff members, according to the refugees.

One refugee's story is typical of the several we have heard. He asked us not to use his name, because he is afraid of the consequences. But he alleges that he had to pay $3,000, two-thirds of it in gold, just to be introduced to someone who could place him and his family on an exit petition. Then it cost him another $3,000 to be listed.

He was told to wait for a call. It came at 3 a.m. on April 27. He was instructed to have his family at the airport by 5 a.m. Yet the curfew didn't end until 7 a.m. Anyone appearing on the streets earlier could be shot on sight.

He bundled his family aboard a 7 a.m. bus for the airport, where he was told he had missed his flight and would have to return to the end of the line. It took some frantic arguing and appealing for him to get his family aboard a later flight. Since the $6,000 bribe money had wiped out their entire life's savings, they arrived in the United States penniless.

At a secret White House meeting on April 29, Kissinger reported that of the 175,000 Vietnamese whom the President had hoped to rescue, the paperwork had been completed for 130,000 but that only 45,000 made it.

It is clear from the available documents that the man who is chiefly to blame, as we have reported in previous columns, is Graham Martin.

Sounds of Falling Dominoes

By William F. Buckley

On the evening when the whole of America was feeling the flush of satisfaction from achieving the return of the Mayaguez and its crew, CBS News Without Walter Cronkite (there was a substitute) was going on & on & on about the protests from — Thailand. It showed extensive footage first of the ambassador for Thailand (since recalled, as a mark of Bangkok's displeasure), then of the Secretary of Foreign Affairs of Thailand, going on about violated sovereignty. I do not know why it is that no reporter had the wit to ask either of these gentlemen whether they believe in the Freedom of the Seas, and if so, whether they believe that the Siamese Navy is going to guarantee that freedom.

You will remember that the American slight against Thai sovereignty itsn't the lavish bases we have occupied there for two decades, for which we pay substantial sums in rent. It is not the mutual assistance treaty, or our joint participation in SEATO. It was the landing in our own military base in Thailand of a detachment of marines whose objective was the rescue mission in Cambodia. We learn that the two or three thousand students who surrounded our embassy in Bangkok spent themselves in anti-American rhetoric, and finally burnt an American marine in effigy. One wonders whether it might not have been more appropriate to burn the SEATO treaty in effigy?

We need, at this point however, to swallow our pride, as Henry Kissinger has admirably done, permitting himself only to remark publicly that he would have hoped there would have been more "sympathy" in Thailand for the American position. It is pride-swallowing time because what we have seen in Thailand is the kind of anti-Americanism that issues from disgust, combined with fear. Disgust with our unconsummated mission in Southeast Asia; fear of offending the victors, who are the neighbors of Thailand.

It is, of course, the sound of the domino. A fortnight before the Mayaguez episode, Thailand's Foreign Minister said: "The United States does not have any morals at this point. They have already pulled out from Cambodia and South Vietnam, so we are going to have to depend on ourselves." How strange that CBS news could not have given us this perspective on the Thai complaints they portrayed so vividly on Friday night?

An undisclosed Thai Foreign Ministry source said, about the same time, "If we cling to the United States we'll lose whatever barbaining power we have in the region — and we've already lost most of it."

But of course the chill is felt not only in Thailand. In South Korea, President Park said — again, a fortnight ago — "I believe the danger of the North Korean Communist clique playing with fire is greater this year than ever before."

An official from the Foreign Ministry of Tokyo was quoted: "Japan, too, must rectify her position of having relied excessively on the United States."

In Singapore, Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew said: "Rather than go through the mincing machine, it makes more sense to seek political and diplomatic solutions." That's sign-language for: accommodation with the Communists.

In the Philippines, President Marcos said: "Closer links with the Communist states are the only way to ensure our security and survival." That is the frankest statement of the year, and President Marcos should receive the prize for diplomatic candor.

And, to suggest the long shadows of the domino, from the other side of the world, Kurt Biedenkopf, Secretary General of West Germany's Christian Democratic Union: "If Berlin were attacked tomorrow I am not absolutely certain that the United States would intervene."

So that the Mayaguez venture was of great symbolic meaning. The exquisitely eristic objections of such as Mr. Anthony Lewis are otherworldly. He claims that we have in effect authorized instant bombing of any country seizing a commercial vessel no matter what were the surrounding ambiguities. The answer to that silliness is that we do not, for sound circumstantial reasons, treat Cambodia the way we would, say, Switzerland. Cambodia is being run by savages whose respect for international law is about as solemn as Adolf Hitler's. Rescuing the Mayaguez will not undo the loss of South Vietnam. A failure to have rescued it would have been calamitous.

Nicholas Von Hoffman:

"We Sure Whomped Them!"

WASHINGTON — Horray! We're a winner at last and Jerry Ford is the first American Prexy since F.D.R. to lead a victorious nation. Boy, was that a long losing streak, but we couldnd't have broken it at a better time — just before Memorial Day — and if it wasn't one of your big wins, an Austerlitz or a Trafalgar, nothing buys as much as it used to.

From every standpoint, though, it was a great clutch victory.

The kind of war we like — short, cheap and noisy. Sudden-death overtime, extra-inning wars don't make it because, if you exceed five fatalities per congressional district these days, the government has a peace movement on its hands.

How long it's been since we've had a cause we can all believe in! Wasn't it good to see those old-time headlines we haven't laid our tired squinters on for so long? CONGRESS RALLIES TO BACK PRESIDENT — NATION UNITES — LEADERS SAY NO SACRIFICE TOO GREAT, and the best part of it was that none was required.

Another thing that made it such a big win was that it was purely American. None of that going-to-the-rescue-of-embattled-freedom-loving-allies-as-per-commitment stuff. This one was red, white and blue all the way. They grabbed our ship; we told 'em to give it back or we'd send in the first team and let 'em feel the heavy part of our batting order; they said they'd give it back; and we whomped 'em anyway just for trying. Oh, man, did we run 'em out of the ballpark or didn't we?

This was the biggie. Like Ron Nessen said, a straight-out Captain America war against "piracy on the high seas."

That's your worst kind of piracy, too. Low-sea piracy isn't so bad. The reason we don't flatten Quito when the Ecuadorians rip off our tuna ships every month is because that's low-sea piracy to which the proper response of a proud and mighty world power is to pay the beggars off.

The difference between Cambodian high-sea piracy and Ecuadorian tuna boat snatching is the difference in cargoes. Heisting a load of dead fish is only seajacking, which, like airjacking, is a misdemeanor punishable by giving the perpetrators money. Putting greasy, commie fingers on a Coca-Cola Tanker taking vital supplies to our far-flung network of PXs is a major, Class A felony punishable by bombing and airborne assault.

The PX system is the free world's first line of defense and the Mayaquez — funny-sounding name for an American ship — was making an emergency run to restock our base at Utapao, where they were down to a 48-hour supply. Communist sappers had recently blown up a major soda pop dump there.

This is also our most humane war. Only a few of our people dead and a larger number unaccounted for, which is important because with Vietnam over we were running low on POWs and MIAs to agitate ourselves about. It was good from the Cambodian point of view, since, according to The New York Times, they've depopulated their cities and therefore should welcome our knocking them down to prevent their people from sneaking back and resuming urban ways.

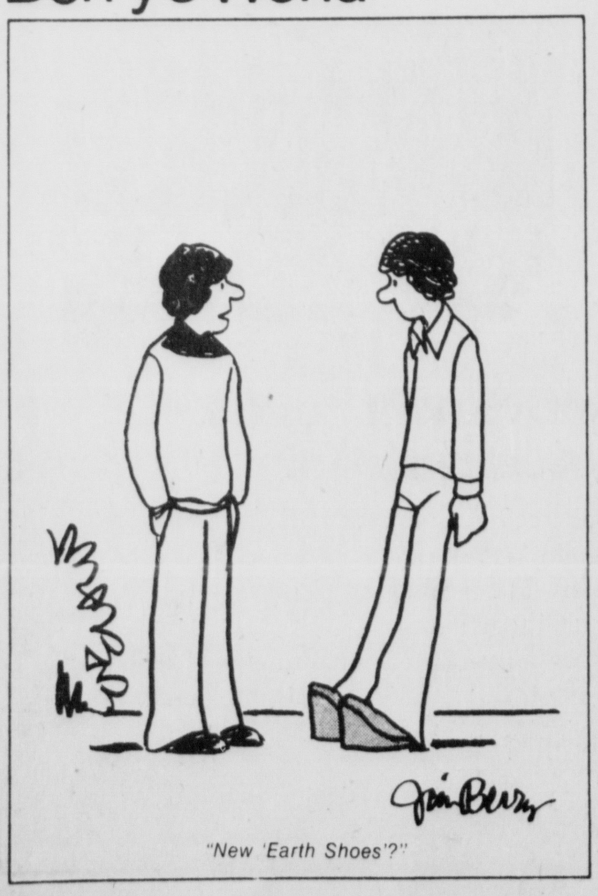

The war proved something Barry Goldwater has been saying for years: Winning is better than losing. In this case the fruits of victory are that we proved to the entire world that we are stronger than Cambodia, a matter of some speculation in Moscow, and we put Andorra, Switzerland and Rhodesia on notice that any similar acts of piracy by their naval forces, on high seas or low, will be met by the same swift response. We demonstrated to our allies, especially Thailand, Greece, Turkey and the Sardinian Government-in-Exile, that our word can be counted on. We re-established Henry Kissinger as a credible negotiator — either you sign or we bomb — and by his bold, decisive leadership Jer revealed himself to be a mensh, a regular Harry Truman.

Besides reaffirming that we are a nationa of belligerent penguins who can be counted on to go to war when told, we burnished our tarnished international image. No more will the community of nations regard us as trigger-happy, jittery people with a collective ego problem. We're not the 98-pound weakling on the beach Peking took us for. Moreover, as a strong, powerful and self-confident Number One World Power we showed patience and restraint. For 36 long hours we pursued every peaceful avenue of diplomacy. Only then did we start kicking Cambodian tail, and boy, oh boy, did it feel good!

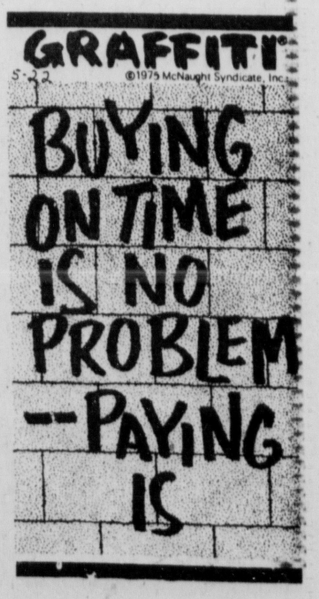

We broke new ground with this war. This is the first war of psycho-motor reflex. America got her rocks off and Americans everywhere feel better for it. Because of the victory at Koh Tang Island, we walk with our heads a little higher, shoulders a little squarer, chins a little jauntier and ears a little deafer to the cries of Yankee Go Home.

The Big A is back.

Open Letter

Editor, The Freeman:
TO: The Board of Education
Rondout Valley Central Schools

In regards to the school budget having been voted down, I recommend that the board should take a very hard look at reducing the budget. If this Board insists on presenting this same budget again, they will be making an unwise move.

Someone stated that they were disappointed in the voter turn-out. What would be the sense of voting on a budget, if you try to force the very same budget again if its voted down. When a vote is held and the vote is no, the people mean no. We understand that the school requires a school budget, so you as the Board, should take measures to reduce the budget. This is an unusual situation when we have the opportunity to vote more than once on an issue. But the very same budget should not be presented to the voters.

I propose to make adjustments as the following:

1. Reduce busing for after school activities.
2. Reduce cafeteria help to the minimum.
3. Reduce guidance counselors to the minimum.
4. Reduce sports activities to only four sports; football or soccer, basketball, baseball, track.
5. Reduce the number of principals and their assistants in the school district; double up on this job; eliminating some principals & assistants.
6. Reduce the number of substitute teachers and aides to a minimum and have present teachers assist.
7. Reduce Library expenses.
8. Discontinue field trips.
9. Dismiss excess and undesirable teachers and secretaries; work under the tighest conditions.
10. Increase the price of cafeteria food to all school employees.
11. No new programs to be adopted for the interim.
12. Reduce lighting where possible and unnecessary telephones.

As a concerned taxpayer and a father of children going to school, I know some of the items above are hard-lined. But with the economy and unemployment in the state it is, we at this time, cannot afford such an increase that you propose. All of us are encountering hard times. Everyone wants the best education possible for our children, but at a price we can afford.

If you chose to adopt an austerity budget, I do not feel that this is the right way either. The first thing an austerity budget does is to remove all the activities and cafeteria from the students. This is not the proper step, but it gets you off the hook. Don't cop-out on the people who elected you. You owe them your best effort. I realize at times it is frustrating, but someone has to do it. You may have to cut back on expenditures, activities, teachers, principals, secretaries and whatever else has to be slashed in order to make this a budget which the taxpayers can afford. We the taxpayers in this district have returned the budget to you. We expect changes and cut-backs which will not become an austerity budget.

We do not want an austerity budget; we would like you to present to us a much lower and a more realistic budget.

Thank you for your time and consideration,

ERNEST A. QUICK

Editor, The Freeman:

Good. We finally have a WHITA swing vote on the school board. Now maybe things can get back in their proper perspective. You reach a point where you really take offense at spending so much money for education. There are so many more valuable things in our society.

One of them is the Bicentennial. Better to spend the money in honoring this great country than to spend it on the students who don't really appreciate it.

Hopefully WHITA will cut expenditures to the bone. Why do we have to spend so much for a superintendent? He makes well over $30,000 a year. Couldn't we manage to hire a well-qualified Ph.D. for this price? Anyone who goes to board meetings knows that this underqualified person now has almost dictatorial powers over the school board.

This is not the only piece of overpriced dead wood that we are currently spending way too much money for. We spend $20,000 a year for many incompetent departmental chairmen, who don't even teach one class. Their jobs include $5,000 a year secretarial tasks, and they have $8,000-a-year secretaries to do these. What do we need the chairmen for?

Yes, WHITA you should be given full rein and look into these and many other matters. Gross mismanagement of money is the major cause of the quality of education diminishing in Kingston. Let's get on the stick and justify costs.

BOCES Training

Editor, The Freeman:

After reading Teen Scene 5/18/75 on "Overview of the Vanishing College Catastrophe," it proves to us our children made a wise decision to go into Ulster County BOCES School for their education.

Too many people do not realize we have a good trade school in our midst. We should all see Rockland County or Orange County and their set-up for their students. The child is able to continue on to college if they so desire, which many people do not realize.

It would cost each parent a considerable amount of money to send their child to a trade school, but they do have a choice.

The child that is truly interested has a wonderful training program set up for them in BOCES.

It's about time the community realized the potential of BOCES that we are so very fortunate to have for all our children.

Sincerely,
MRS. A.L. WILMOTH

Sprinklers

Editor, The Freeman:

The architect for Granada Builders told a meeting of the Common Council's Laws and Rules Committee that a sprinkler system will not be installed in the federally-aided housing for the elderly to be built in Kingston because federal regulations do not require one, according to your issue of April 29.

The public should know that HUD's Minimum Property Standards, effective August 1, 1974, provide in part that federally-aided buildings four or more stories high have an automatic fire alarm and an automatic sprinkler protection system in all corridors, public spaces, service areas and utility areas.

The sprinkler systems must be equipped with an automatic alarm initiation device that will activate the general alarm system for the buildings.

Welcome Wagon

Editor, The Freeman:

The Association for Retarded Children would like to publically thank the Kingston Area Welcome Wagon Club for donating the proceeds of their recent raffle to this association. This club, which welcomes newcomers to our area, is a fine example of a community organization dedicated to action and hard work.

We also wish to congratulate Mr. Art Champion, 1st prize winner; Mr. Richard Wells, 2nd prize winner; and Mrs. Terry Roe, 3rd prize winner.

Sincerely,

Outdoors at the Marbletown School

STONE RIDGE — An outdoor environmental educational classroom center is in full swing now in Stone Ridge on eight acres of property near the Marbletown Elementary School where students have planted 1,400 trees and shrubs.

The idea germinated with the Marbletown Parent Teacher Organization about one and one-half years ago according to James Hadley, president, who said that the project now has wide support from the Rondout Valley Board of Education, students, faculty, Marbletown Beautification Committee, 4-H, New York State Conservation Department and friends.

Hopefully about $7,000 in federal funds for further development of the program is anticipated.

Shrubs, trees and ground covers have been provided by the U.S. Soil Conservation Service with the distribution made by Lauren Johnson. Hadley said that the initial planting was made by fourth graders who then supervised the planting of ore plant materials by teams of children from the lower grades.

Each of the 400 children in the school planted a tree or shrub and marked it with a stake with their name on it.

The long-range proposal calls for development of a swampy area for wildlife, rejuvenation of the land and the establishment of nature trails and perhaps eventual construction of a greenhouse.

Among plant materials being used are high bush cranberry, White and Norway Spruce, bittersweet, Japanese holly, barberry among others.

Napanoch Donation

NAPANOCH — Administrators and staff of the Eastern New York State Correctional Facility at Napanoch donated en masse to the Ulster County Blood Bank for the first time in several years, according to Arthur C. Chipp, blood bank president.

After permission from prison superintendent Jerome Patterson was received, scheduling of blood donors was handled by Sgt. Dennis Conroy. The program of giving was tailored to the facility's tightly programmed routine, where it is difficult to release personnel for any length of time, according to Chipp.

About 400 individuals working at the prison and their dependents are covered under the blood bank's group program.

Grand Jurors' Group To Meet on Own Fate

KINGSTON — With the question of whether to reorganize or dissolve the faltering organization topping the agenda, a meeting of the Ulster County Grand Jurors' Association has been scheduled for Monday, June 2, at 8 p.m. in the grand jury room at the Ulster County Courthouse.

Saying that to dissolve the organization would be a disservice to the community, John Mohacsi, current president of the association, urged all present and past members and anyone who has served on the grand jury to attend the meeting.

Mohacsi noted that there are currently 15 counties which have grand jurors associations and that 10 of those have joined the Federation of Grand Jurors' Associations of New York State.

Quoting from the constitution of the federation which states that the organization is formed 'to consolidate our members' efforts to improve and enhance the administration of justice, insure the survival of the grand jury system and its effectiveness and to safeguard the rights of all people in our respective communities," Mohacsi said those interested in crime prevention and reduction should attend the meeting.

YANKS' ELLIOT MADDOX AVOIDS TAG BY GEORGE BRETT

SPORTS TODAY

Medich: Mr. Hard Luck

NEW YORK (UPI) — Doc Medich, who started the season as the New York Yankees' No. 2 pitcher, has become No. 1—in the hard luck department.

Medich, so brilliant during spring training that he started the Yankees' American League opener instead of Jim Hunter, has lost six straight games after winning three of his first four. His current 3-7 mark is in sharp contrast to the 19-15 record he posted last season and the 20-victory performance the Yankees expected of him this year.

It's small consolation to the 6-foot-5, 230-pound righthander that the Yankees have scored a total of seven runs for him in the six straight losses.

Medich suffered his seventh loss Wednesday night when Fran Healy hit a three-run 10th-inning homer off him to give the Kansas City Royals a 4-1 victory over the Yankees.

Chris Chambliss fumbled George Brett's grounder leading off the Kansas City 10th and Cookie Rojas, after failing to sacrifice, singled Brett to third. Healy followed with the homer —his second of the season.

Doug Bird, who pitched 1 1-3 innings of hitless relief, received credit for the victory.

The loss left the Yankees in fifth place in the American League's Eastern Division race, .005 percentage points ahead of the last-place Cleveland Indians and six games behind the firstplace Milwaukee Brewers.

★ ★ ★

Frank Robinson knows what the Cleveland Indians need—and he also knows who can supply it.

Their need is muscle and the guy who may be able to supply it is Frank Robinson. Maybe not tomorrow should American League President Lee MacPhail see fit to suspend the Cleveland manager for his run-in last Saturday night with umpire Jerry Neudecker, but in due time.

The Indians, who trail the American League in runs scored and RBIs and the AL East in the standings, got more than inspirational leadership from their manager Wednesday night. They got two home runs and it was no coincidence that they beat the California Angels 3-2.

Robinson, who has played in only about half the Indians' games, hit his second homer of the season in the second inning and his third in the sixth. Buddy Bell singled home a seventh-inning run which turned out to be the decisive tally when the Angels scored two runs in the eighth.

"I feel that I'll play a lot more now," said Robinson. "Maybe I can supply a little extra offense with the long ball and maybe take some of the pressure off the other guys. Maybe I can drive in a few runs too."

Boston defeated Oakland 7-3, Minnesota scored a 6-5, 11inning victory over Detroit, Baltimore downed the Chicago White Sox 6-2 and Texas shaded Milwaukee 5-4 in other AL games.

Red Sox7, A's

Carl Yastrzemski's grand slam homer, the sixth of his career, was the big blow for Boston, which swept its three-game series with World Champion Oakland. Reggie Cleveland pitched a seven-hitter to win his third game for the Red Sox while Ken Holtzman suffered the loss for the A's. Reggie Jackson and Gene Tenace homered for Oakland.

Twins 6, Tigers 5

Larry Hisle's two-run homer off relief ace John Hiller with none out in the 11th inning lifted Minnesota over Detroit and rewarded Ray Corbin's 10 1-3 innings of seven-hit, two-run relief pitching. The Tigers took an early lead on a three-run homer by Willie Horton and went ahead 5-4 in the top of the 11th when Gary Sutherland singled in the lead run.

Orioles 6, White Sox 2

Jim Palmer pitched an eighthitter for his seventh victory— matching his total for 1974 when he had a sore arm —as Baltimore ended its four-game losing streak by beating Chicago. Bobby Grich's three-run homer capped a four-run firstinning burst which routed Claude Osteen and handed him his fourth loss. Lee May also homered for Baltimore and Bill Melton connected for the White Sox.

Rangers 5, Brewers 4

Steve Foucault's 3 1-3 innings of shutout relief enabled Steve Hargan to receive credit for his fourth win as Texas edged Milwaukee. Jim Spencer's tworun homer gave the Rangers an early lead but their decisive run came on a fifth-inning sacrifice fly by Jeff Burroughs. Bill Champion was the loser.

WHITEY FORD

Whitey Stricken

NEW YORK (UPI) — Whitey Ford underwent tests today and will remain in the hospital three or four days, a New York Yankees spokesman said, after the Hall of Fame southpaw collapsed on the dugout steps after throwing batting practice Wednesday night.

Ford, 46, the Yanks' pitching coach, fainted while returning to the clubhouse after pitching in warmups on a hot, muggy night. Dr. Lloyd Falloughs, Ford's personal physician, admitted him to Long Island Jewish Hospital for examination but listed his condition as "good." The doctors were hopeful it was nothing more than heat prostration.

"The prognosis is good," said Dr. Falloughs. "However, I have suggested that he remain in the hospital for a few days as a precautionary method. More extensive tests will be made and a further determination of his prognosis will be made at that time."

After being led back to the clubhouse following his collapse, Ford was reportedly breathing heavily.

Doug's HR Put Reds 'In Like Flynn'

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Cincinnati Reds were "in like Flynn" after Doug Flynn hit his first major league homer off ex-teammate Tom Hall, now pitching for the New York Mets.

Flynn, the Reds' rookie infielder whose homer, hit a three-run blast in the eighth inning to cap the Reds' scoring Wednesday night as they thumped the Mets 11-4.

Tagged with the loss in the finale of the two-game series was Tom Seaver, the Mets' ace, who wound up with his fourth loss against five victories after the Reds had spotted him a 3-0 lead after two innings.

Flynn's homer was one of three the Reds hit as Jack Billingham, with relief help from Will McEnaney, registered his fourth victory against three losses.

The homer by Flynn came after Pete Rose's single and a walk to pinch hitter Marv Rettenmund.

"I was looking down at Grammas coaching third," said Flynn, "and he was motioning take, take, take. Then the count was three balls and one strike and I got the hit sign. That's when I said, "oh, oh."

And hit Flynn did!

"When I hit the ball," he said, "I thought to myself if that one isn't a homer, I'll never hit one. I was ready to keep running out there to the stands to get the ball after I passed second. Then I realized it had bounced back onto the field."

Tony Perez and Dave Concepcion drove in seven runs with the Reds' other two homers.

Seaver had reeled off three hitless innings when the Reds erupted for three runs in the fourth. Joe Morgan singled and scored on Johnny Bench's double and Perez followed with his sixth homer.

Felix Millan's error on Rose's grounder touched off a four-run fifth inning. Perez and Concepcion each delivered two-run singles. Concepcion's homer, his third, came off Hall in the seventh.

★ ★ ★

The Atlanta Braves are proving that the long ball in Georgia didn't go the way of Hank Aaron.

True, in Aaron the Braves dealt away the most prolific home run hitter in baseball history to Milwaukee last winter, but thanks to Darrell Evans, Dusty Baker and Vic Correll, the long ball "Spirit of '73" has returned to Atlanta Stadium.

★ ★ ★

Evans, it may be recalled, joined Aaron and Davey Johnson in 1973 as the first trio on the same team to hit 40 or more homers each in one season. Aaron and Johnson are now both gone from Atlanta but Wednesday night, Evans belted a pair of homers in the Braves' 6-3 victory over the Montreal Expos to join Baker and Correll for the National League lead with eight.

Both of Evans' homers came with the bases empty but his two RBIs gave him 26 as the season moved into the one-quarter mark. Correll and Baker hit their eighth homers Tuesday night and Mike Lum also homered Wednesday.

Elsewhere in the National League, San Francisco edged Pittsburgh 2-1, Houston blanked Philadelphia 4-0, San Diego shaded St. Louis 1-0 and Los Angeles drubbed Chicago 10-0.

Dodgers 10, Cubs 0

Andy Messersmith extended his unbeaten streak to 11 straight over two years and Steve Garvey drove home four runs as Los Angeles routed Eastern Division leader Chicago. Messersmith, who drove in three runs himself, raised his mark to 7-0, scattering seven hits in his sixth complete game. Steve Yeager had four hits for the Dodgers, while included among Garvey's RBIs, was a two-run homer in the eighth.

Padres 1, Cardinals 0

Losing pitcher Bob Gibson's throwing error allowed San Diego's Enzo Hernandez to score an unearned run in the seventh and rookie right-hander Joe McIntosh (5-2) made it stand up, limiting St. Louis to eight hits. Hernandez opened the seventh with a single and stole second. Then on Bobby Tolan's bouncer to the mound, Gibson threw off balance and wildly to first allowing Hernandez to score. Gibson, who gave up just four hits, is now 1-4.

Giants 2, Pirates 1

Chris Speier singled in the winning run with the bases loaded and nobody out in the 11th inning to lift San Francisco over Pittsburgh. Speier's game-winning hit off reliever Dave Giusti came after Bobby Murcer led off the 11th with a single and Gary Matthews and Willie Montanez reached base on walks.

Astros 4, Phillies 0

Houston's Larry Dierker hurled a six-hitter to shut out Philadelphia for only its second time this year—and Milt May provided him all the support he needed with a three-run bases-loaded double in the fifth. It was the second 1975 shutout for Dierker (5-4), who struck out eight.

Driver Files Suit

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Race driver Douglas L. Fortin, injured in the 1974 World Cup Rally, filed a $4 million suit Monday against American Motors, Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. and an Orange County concern, alleging negligence, products liability and breach of contract.

Fortin suffered injuries to his nervous system and compound fractures of both ankles in a mishap at Izmir, Turkey, and spent several months in a body cast after the accident.

Team Captain

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Arnold Palmer Tuesday was named captain of the Ryder Cup team by the Professional Golfers Association. He will most likely be a non-playing captain, although he has four more PGA tournaments to try to make the team as a player.

This is the second time Palmer has been named captain of the Ryder Cup team. He was playing captain of the team in 1963.

Kingston, Sawyers Win On DCSL Tennis Courts

KINGSTON

Kingston High completed its DCSL tennis season with a 5-0 whitewash of Beacon Wednesday, and Saugerties was edged by Lourdes in another of its 3-2 matches.

The Maroons, with a 9-1 league record, host non-league toughie Newburgh this afternoon at Forsyth Park. The Sawyers can put their rackets away, finishing the season with a 3-7 league mark, 8-10 overall.

Little resistance was provided by the Beacon Bulldogs as Dan Ingalsbe outpointed

Kingston High One Win Away From DCSL Baseball Pennant

KINGSTON — The magic number for Kingston High in the DCSL baseball pennant race is now down to one after the Maroons used some long ball power to thump visiting Lourdes Wednesday, 13-6.

Elsewhere in the league, Saugerties turned back John Jay, 7-2; Ketcham kept its hopes alive by beating Poughkeepsie, 5-4; Arlington hung on to third place with a 12-10 win over Beacon; and Roosevelt downed Spackenkill, 4-2.

A home run by Duane Carey and triples by Joe Primo and Paul Lawatsch carried KHS over all the rough spots. Carey unloaded against Bill Kyle in the third inning with two men aboard to erase an early two-run Warrior lead. Primo also connected with two on, capping a three-run KHS rally in the fourth that gave starter Gary Amato a 6-2 lead.

Amato, though, began to struggle in the fifth. He gave up a walk, a pair of hits and a run, and that was enough for coach Ron Cole who threw Marco Tiano into the breach.

Tiano finished the inning but not before Lourdes had scored two more runs. It stayed a close game until the bottom of the sixth when the Maroons pushed seven runs across. Lawatsch drove in two with his triple in the inning, and the losers helped things along by committing three errors.

Tiano, with four strikeouts and one walk, got the decision for his three innings of relief.

Kingstn, now 13-4, plays its final game Friday at Poughkeepsie. Joe Primo will be going for the Maroons who need a win or a Ketcham loss to take the pennant. Ketcham wraps up its season at Arlington.

Saugerties took its tenth win against seven defeats as Tom Crane scattered four hits over the distance. The Sawyers took the lead for keeps in the second inning scoring four runs. Tim Cole sparked the attack with a single that drove two home.

Crane gave up solo runs in the first and seventh innings. He finished with six strikeouts and three walks.

Golf Record Set By Sawyer Team

POUGHKEEPSIE — Saugerties High golfers completed their season with a school and course record Wednesday, while Kingston High finished on a three-game skid.

The Sawyers turned in their best play of the season, said coach Bob Varrell, carding a 157-171 win against Poughkeepsie at the three-year-old McCann golf course. The score set a Saugerties school record and a McCann record for high school teams.

And Kingson coach Floyd McCormick, in pointing to his team's 175-181 loss to Arlington, declared that the team seemed to have lost interest in its last match, finishing with a 7-5 record, "The poorest since I have had golf, since 1968."

For Saugerties, Steve Van Tassel shot his best round of the season, a 38, to lead the tightly packed top four. He led the Sawyers Tuesday in that team's first ever win against Kingson.

Chris Luley had a 39, and Warren Yetter and John Dunn shared third place with 40 apiece. The fine shooting did not stop there, as Tom Brady and Jim Delmege each had a 41 in fifth and sixth spots.

Saugerties finishes its season with a 5-7 record. "We came on strong at the end of the season," said Varrell. Poughkeepsie scores were: John Hall 41, John Fine 42, David Granbeau 43, and Scott Horowitz 45.

Kingston and Arlington played the last few holes with eyes to the ominous clouds overhead, getting spattered by some rain. Todd Wonderly was the Maroons' best with a 44, Rich Sippel and Bob Allen each had 45, and Jeff Werbalowsky a 47.

For Arlington, Jeff Buley led with 41, Jim Osborn had 43, Tim LaPan 45, and Mike Corish 46.

Both county schools begin Section One play today at Yorktown Heights.

Nine Straight For Sets

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — The unbeaten New York Sets racked up their ninth win of the World Team Tennis season Wednesday night by defeating the Los Angeles Strings 28-26 thanks to Sandy Mayer's 7-6 upset of Bob Lutz.

The Sets insured their win when the mixed doubles tandem of player coach Fred Stolle and Mona Schallau got four points in their match even though they were beaten 6-4 by Geoff Masters and Rosie Casals.

In women's singles, Billie Jean King of New York beat Ms. Casals 6-2 while Ms. King teamed with Virginia Wade to beat Kathy Harter and Betty Ann Stuart 7-6.

In men's doubles, Masters and Ross Case of Los Angeles beat Mayer and Stolle 6-4.

New Head Coach

OAKLAND (UPI) — Jack Evans, the Central Hockey League's 1974-75 Coach of the Year, Tuesday was appointed head coach of the California Golden Seals of the National Hockey League.

Four Homers Power Greenkill to Victory

KINGSTN — Greenkill Tavern backed Deke Ross' four-hit pitching with four home runs to rout Lou's Subs, 14-1, in the AAA Division of the City Slo Pitch. The game was halted by the 13-run stopper rule.

In other games, Ken Hopper's homer with two out in the bottom of the seventh gave Ray's Village Inn a 4-3 squeaker over the Jets and Mastro Construction, outhit 16-14, trounced Uhl Construction, 13-9.

Jack Becker, Hohn Carter, Jim Milano and Bill Samuel struck the Greenkill homers. Rocky Secreto and Steve Peruso added triples. Bob Marz tripled for the losers.

Bruce Wiederspiel knocked in the first two Jet runs with a first inning homer. Hopper's game winning homer for Ray's cleared the centerfield fence.

Mastro's had three homers against Uhl's hit by Chick Boice, who had four RBI'S; Dom Bird and Joe Schabot, Dan Vogt and Bud Bunt hit round trippers for Uhl's.

Chris Farrell, Nagasaki's winning pitcher, helped his own cause with a double and five runs batted in. Ken Beesmer tripled for H&M.

In a wild, eight-inning game, LaLima's scored three runs in the bottom of the seventh to tie Amato's 9-9. The Truckers went ahead 11-9 in the first extra inning and LaLima's roarded back with five. Joe Bodie's single scored Joe Koenig with the winning run.

Gene Ballou of Amato's and Pete Schline of LaLima's had four hits a-piece.

Dann Bigelow, George Barber Tied For Gross

SAUGERTIES — Dann Bigelow and George Barber tied with 41 for low gross honors in the Sawyerkill Country Club men's day competition. Harry Szarmach and Dennis Beaver had net 39, in the Class A group.

Bob Kraft led Class B with 43 gross and Art Evans had low net 38. In Class C, Les Turner posted low gross 46 and Frank Greco, low net 38.

Dennis Beaver's 82 earned low gross honors in the Pro Sweeps event. Keith DuVal (86-14) and Joe Pfleghaar (100-25) shared low net honors. Keith Roberts and Dr. Bernie Cohen had net 80s for the key number.

Indict Four Jockeys for Fixing Race

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Seven persons, including four jockeys, have been indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of fixing the ninth race at Maryland's Bowie Race Course on Valentine's Day.

The indictment charged that the jockeys, all of Laurel, Md., conspired to inhibit a horse "from running the best possible race and by such action to influence the order of the finish and the outcome of the race." None of the indicted jockeys rode one of the first three horses.

Three of the indicted jockeys, Eric Walsh, 35, Luigi Gino, 34, and Ben Feliciano, 32, have been riding during the current 60-day meeting at Pimlico at Baltimore. All three were disqualified by the racing stewards after the indictments were announced.

The fourth, Jesse Davidson, 34, has been recovering from a racing injury and was not riding in the Pimlico meeting.

The three other defendants are Nicholas A. Iacona, 41, of Chester, Pa., Louis J. Summa, 31, of Upper Chichester, Pa., and Edward Bishop, 33, of Wilmington, Del. The U.S. Attorney's office refused to provide additional information on the three out-of-state men.

Named as unindicted coconspirators were Jockeys Carlos Jimenez and John Baboolal; William Vuotto, Walsh's agent; and Ernest Davidson, Jesse's brother.

The winning triple combination in the race, 2-8-12, paid $927.30 at Bowie and $3,154 in off-track betting in New York.

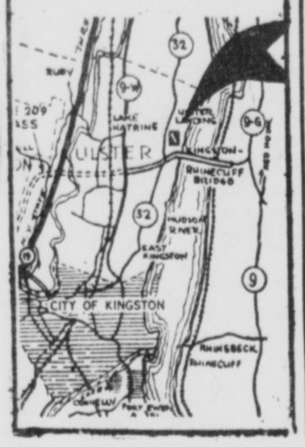

Federal prosecutors alleged that Ernest Davidson and Vuotto were used in the conspiracy to buy 38 tickets on the winning combination and cash some of them. The three out-of-state defendants were involved in suesequent transactions with the remaining tickets.

An investigation into the ninth race began after Bowie General Manager Al Karwacki and other track officials noticed what they described as "an unusual wagering pattern" on the race. Karwacki notified the Thoroughbred Protective Bureau, which in turn asked the FBI to investigate.

You can also fail it with your eyes closed.

We call it the Utica Club Bar Exam.

You'll call it a nice test. Because if you fail it, you'll just have to take it over again. Until you get it right.

Here's how it works. Take any two beers of your choice. And one of ours. Utica Club. Pour them all into mugs. Have someone blindfold you (or at least mix the mugs up) just to make sure you taste the beers, not the labels.

Now, taste. Which one would you move to the head of the class?

In tests like this conducted in colleges in upstate New York, Utica Club was preferred more often than not.

Much to the surprise of everyone, except us.

Because we know the things that go into a Utica Club. The water that's good enough to bottle and sell by itself. The ingredients that cost a little more but make our beer worth a little more. And the most expensive ingredient of all: extra time.

If you picked out the Utica Club, we both pass. If you picked another beer, we fail. If you couldn't pick anyone out, try again. And don't fail to notice that your favorite beers didn't taste better to you than our favorite.

Why did you have to be blindfolded to find out how good Utica Club is?

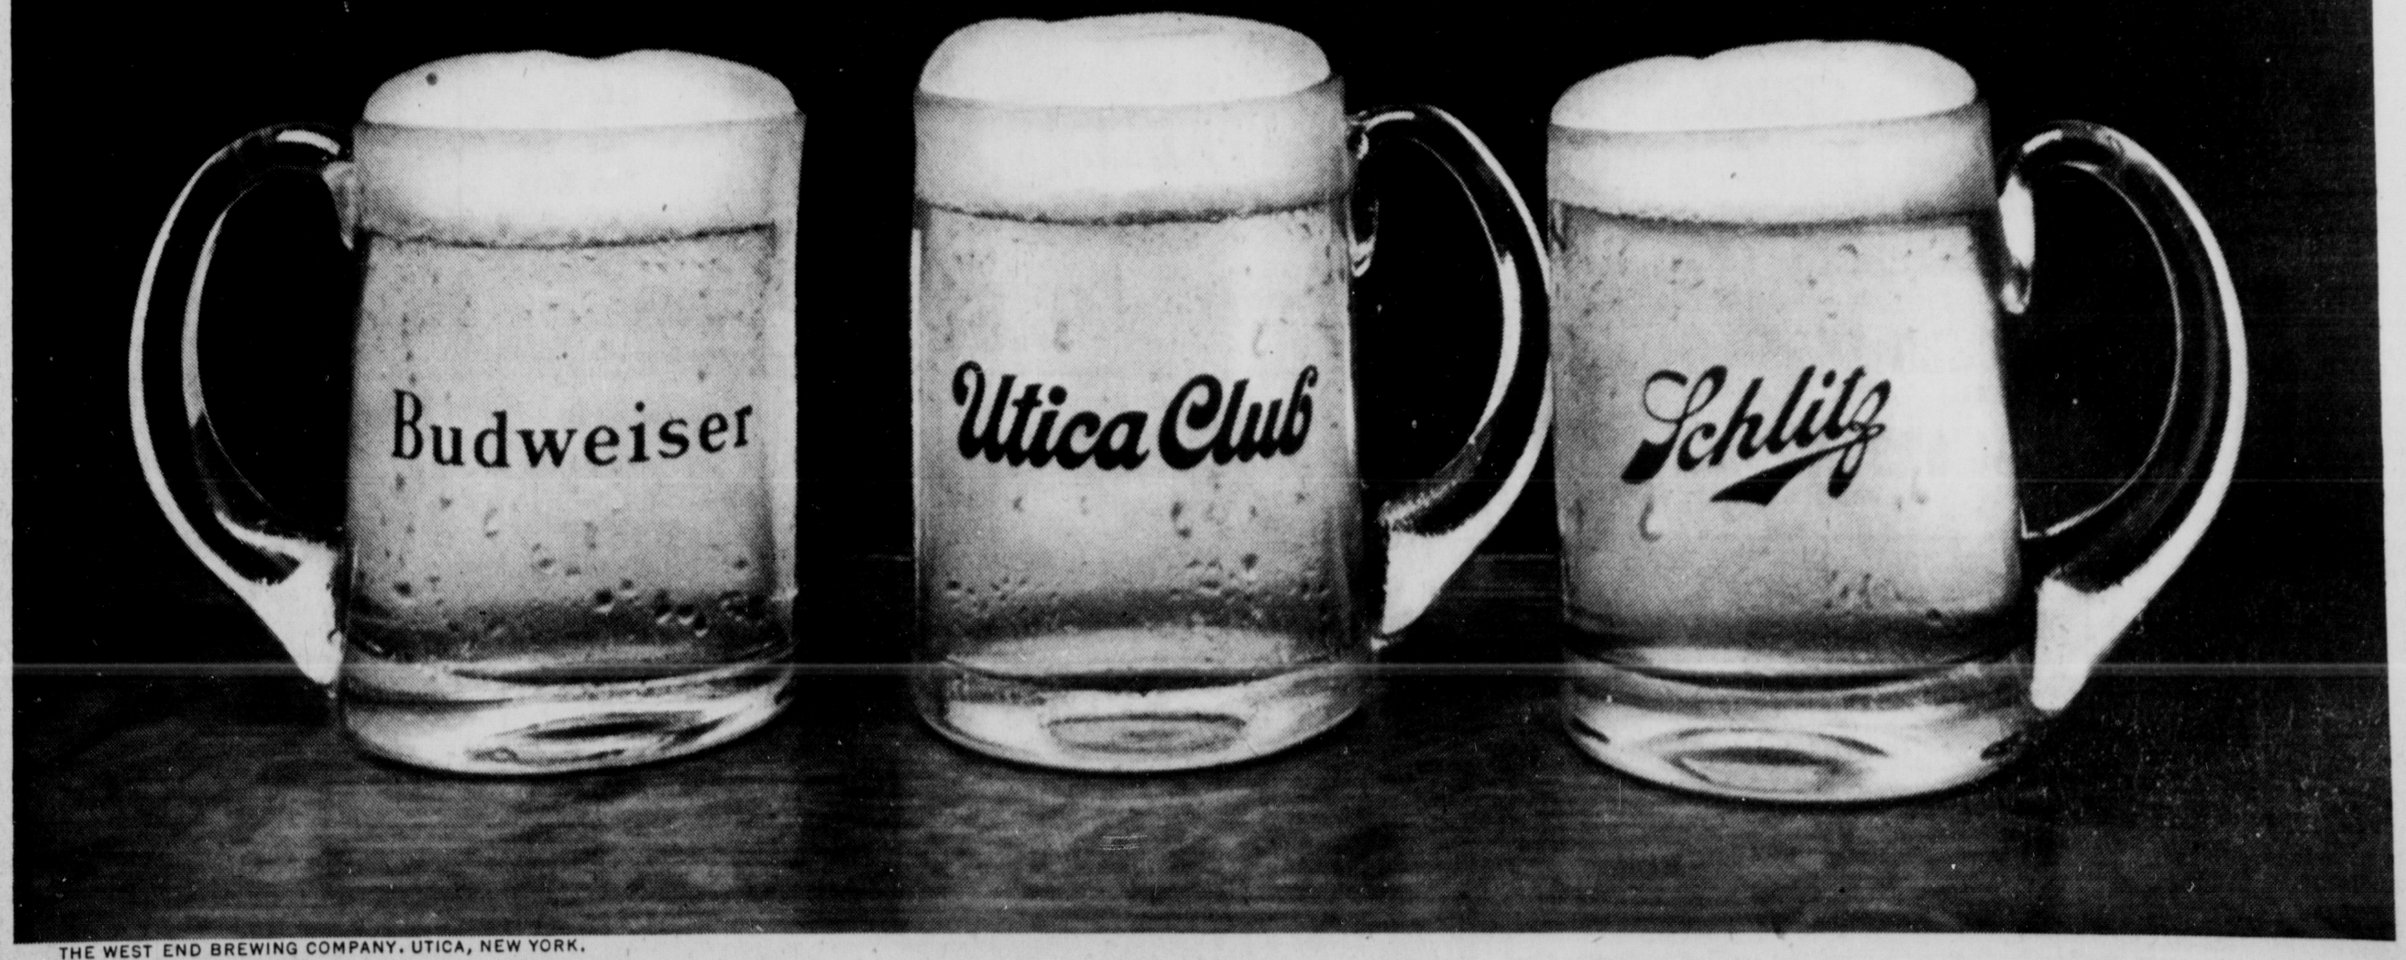

Sometimes, the best way to open your eyes is to close them.

Utica Club

Utica Club introduces a test you can pass with your eyes closed.

Red Hook Alive In Division II After Beating Coleman

KINGSTON — There is only one divisional championship left undecided in the UCAL baseball race, and Wednesday Red Hook High kept its chances alive for that honor with a marathon, 12-inning, 6-5 victory over Coleman.

In other games around the league, Liberty won its ninth straight and locked up the Division I crown with an 8-0 triumph over runnerup Pine Bush; Rondout, a game in front of the Raiders in Division II, belted Onteora, 7-1; Highland stunned Wallkill, 8-1; Ellenville blasted Fallsburgh, 14-2; and New Paltz, the Division III winner, beat Marlboro, 4-0.

Coleman's Kevin Coughlin and Red Hook's Jim Simmons locked horns in the long duel. Coughlin went all the way and took the loss. Simmons relieved Ron Coon with one out in the first inning and became the winner when Tim Moul tripled home Corky Bayer in the 12th.

Coleman jumped on Coon quickly, scoring four runs in the first inning. Coughlin and Chris Bentley rapped singles and John Sumislaski hit an RBI triple to put the finishing touches on the rally.

The losers got one off Simmons in the second to take a five run lead as Bill Berardi drove in Joe Schell. Simmons, however, settled down to throw ten innings of shutout ball fanning 11 batters in the process.

Jim Merriken and Doug Traudt led Red Hook back into contention. Traudt singled to start rallies in the third and fifth innings. Merriken clubbed a two-run double in the third and knocked Traudt home with the third Raider run in the fifth. Joe Skelly followed with a double worth two more runs that tied the game.

Coughlin, who struck out ten and walked two during the afternoon, survived one Red Hook threat in the tenth, but just didn't have enough to finish. He got the first two men out in the 12th before Bayer clipped him for a single. Moul then worked a full count, fouled off several pitches, then slammed his game-winner.

Liberty, the hottest team in the league, bombed Pine Bush's Bob Bolebruch. Phil Fanning poled a two-run homer, and Mike Lofare fired a shutout for the Redskins.

Jay Schaeffer had a two-hitter as Rondout eased past OCS with some late inning fireworks. The Ganders tied it with a run in the fourth then chased Al Johnson with four in the fifth.

Rondout will meet Red Hook Saturday to determine the Division II title.

Dave Mackey struck out eight and gave up only two hits to reduce Wallkill's hopes of a playoff spot. The Big Blue took the lead for keeps in the first inning with two runs off loser Bob Lee.

Bob Baranoski belted a home run for Ellenville to help Hal Blaunstein to a win. Blaunstein allowed ten hits but kept the damage to a minimum in handing the Comets their 13th consecutive defeat.

Marty Drahos shut out Marlboro on three hits to lift the Hugies to a 12-2 in the league. Mike Beck, Pete Sciascia and Wally Smith all had RBI's. Randy Baglieri went all the way in defeat.

Dress Rehearsal Day At Indianapolis Speedway

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Action at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway shifted from "Gasoline Alley" to the race track and the pits today with dress rehearsal practice.

Most of the 33 starters in Sunday's million-dollar race were expected to take advantage of three hours of final testing under racing conditions.

Pit practice without engines running—the last activity for the racing fraternity before Saturday's traditional drivers' meeting—was to conclude the trackside activities.

It was virtually too late to solve such major problems as handling difficulties, but many teams still had important fuel tests to make and pit practice was just as vital.

That's why the 2½-mile oval was expected to resemble race day—except that most of the huge stands were empty.

"Fuel could be a critical area, especially for the leaders," said Johnny Rutherford, who is driving a British-made McLaren similar to the machine he rode to a 22-second victory over Bobby Unser in last year's race.

Each cars gets 280 gallons for the distance, and fuel conservation is expected to be one of the big factors in the 200-lap grind. Last year veteran Lloyd Ruby was running third only 13 laps from the finish when he ran out of gas and had to settle for ninth place.

A.J. Foyt, considered the man to beat and starting from the pole position for the fourth time, predicted eight to 10 pit stops for fuel. Thus, pit action could make the difference between winning and losing, especially in a close race.

Most drivers also planned several tire changes and swapping rubber was also an intricate part of today's pit row drills.

Each crew has specific space assigned for its car. Earlier this week, the painters were busy marking up the pit walls, and each crew hauled its fuel tank into place.

Foyt and such other favorites as Gordon Johncock and Unser, who share the front row with the Texas speedster who seeks a record fourth victory here, made their fuel tests after qualifying during the first weekend of the time trials, but all were expected to take advantage of today's final practice.

Also eligible were the two alternates, cars driven by Rick Muther and Al Loquasto. If, for any reason, one of the 33 starting machines fails, Muther would get the first chance to join the field in last place. Loquasto would be second choice.

As the hot sun beat down on "Gasoline Alley," the garage area near the infield of the race track, mechanics put the finishing touches to their work Wednesday. Every part of their sensitive machines was inspected, for even a minor flaw could lead to drastic consequences.

Driver error, rather than mechanical failure, led to several practice accidents in preparation for the race, but no driver was injured severely.

Coleman Netmen Edge Ellies

ELLENVILLE — Coleman High remained one game behind Onteora in the UCAL tennis race Wednesday by edging Ellenville, 3-2.

Section Nine singles champ Dave Cooper of the Ellies beat the Statesmen's No. 1 man John Farrell, 8-1, but Coleman's Paul Lyle, Kevin Kenyon, and the team of Mark McDonough and Jeff Bubnack won giving the visitors the match.

Lyle tripped Harris Marcus, 8-5; Kenyon beat Jane Rosenstock, 8-6, and the McDonough-Bubnack duo tripped Sue Eckert and Rich Bradford, 8-2.

Ellenville's Guy Goldsmith and Brian Kunst won their doubles match by forfeit.

Coleman is 6-1 to Onteora's 7-0.

Sloan Heads All-Defensive Team

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Scrappy Jerry Sloan of the Chicago Bulls, told by one team he was too big and awkward to be a guard and too small to be a forward, was the top vote-getter on the National Basketball Association's 1974-75 All-Defensive Team Announced by Commissioner J. Walter Kennedy Wednesday.

The 33 year-old guard from Evansville drew 22 points from the 18 voting coaches and it marked the fourth time in his 10 year career that Sloan has made the first team. Two other times, he was named to the second five.

Walt Frazier of the New York Knicks, the only player named to the team every year since the coaches began voting in 1969, joined Sloan in the back court.

Milwaukee's Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, although injured most of the season, was named center and Boston Celtics norwards, John Havlicek and Paul Silas, rounded out the squad.

The second team was made up of Elvin Hayes of Washington and Chicago's Bob Love at forwards, Dave Cowens of Boston at center and Norm Van Lier of Chicago and Boston's Don Chaney at guard.

Wiest Leads Katrine Shoot

ST. REMY — Frank Wiest had a string of 25 straight and .950 average to lead the weekly trapshoot at the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club. Bill Costello paced the skeet event with .840.

Jim Pirro was second in traps with .933 and 25 straight. Other leaders included Brian Sawchuck .920, Bill Costello .880, Bob Schmedake .860, Chet Joy .840 and Tom Bruck .820. Joy was runnerup in skeets with .680.

Schlanger Tops Kingston Jayvees

KINGSTON — Bob Schlanger slammed a homer and single to pace Kingston High Jayvees to a 10-5 victory over Our Lady of Lourdes. Jim Murphy pitched the win and collected two hits.

Kingston, now 10-6 on the season, travels to Poughkeepsie Friday.

Andy Reinstated

CHICAGO (UPI) — Baltimore Orioles catcher Andy Etchebarren, who has been grumbling about his month-long stay on the disabled list, has gotten his wish and been reinstated to the team.

General Manager J. Frank Cashen announced Tuesday that Etchebarren was reinstated in time for Tuesday night's scheduled game against the Chicago White Sox, which was postponed because of rain. The Orioles farmed out pitcher Dave Johnson to make room for Etchebarren.

Motacross Winner

Bill Anagnosa, 16-year-old Coleman High junior from Red Hook, shown in the machine he swept the 250 CC amateur heat and main event at the recent Millerton, Conn. races. He competed in a field of 50 cycles in his class from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts. He won the feature by a 100-yard margin. His 13-year-old brother, Jeff, led the 100 CC race for four of the five laps until forced out by suspension problems. Nearly 200 racers participated.

Two First-Week Wins For Fire Department

SAUGERTIES

The Fire Department is off and hosing in the SAA C Division Softball League, nipping Eveready Beverages, 11-10 and thumping Sperl's Pakkers, 12-4, in their first two starts of the 1975 season.

In other games, Lee Electric singed Mt. Marion Inn 8-5 and the Beverages came back to top Ted's Exxon 9-7.

Ernie Dunn pitched both wins for the Smokies and drove in the winning run in extra innings against Eveready. Chris Matuerstock had two hits and three RBIs. Tom Silk doubled and tripled for Eveready. Bob Mignano paced the Firemen over Sperl's with three singles.

Silk again doubled and tripled for the Beverages and Ralph Williams added two hits against Exxon. Six of Ted's seven runs were the result of two-run and four-run homers by Eddie Feldman. Dennis Landherr paced Exxons with two singles and a double.

Lee Electric spotted Mt. Marion Inn a 5-0 lead then rallied to win 8-5. Bud Miller's two-run homer in the seventh broke a 5-5 tie in the seventh. George Biesel led the Inn with two hits.

Tri-Major to Plain and Fancy

KINGSTON

Plain and Fancy won 71 games and lost 37 to edge Tommy's Restaurant by two games to win the Tri-Major bowling title. The individual race between Arlene Wilson and Louise Colombino was even closer with Mrs. Wilson winning 193.27 to 173.96 in the 108-game race.

Mrs. Wilson also dominated the individual records with a 264 solo and 645 series. Sarah St. George posted 633 and Betty Ann Eaton had 626. Mary Kennelly rolled 243 and Jackie Linnartz 236. The most improved bowler was Jean Galvin with a 14-point pickup in her average.

Plain and Fancy led the team shooting with 624 high single and 1670 high series.

Suskie Rolls 299 Game

KINGSTON

It has been reported somewhat belatedly that Marshall Suskie, a 174-average bowler in the Friday Night Mixers, fired a 299 game during the bowling tournament for the Special Olympics at Ferraro's Bowlatorium.

The event was sponsored by the Exchange Club of Kingston.

A 10-pin tap after 11 strikes in a row deprived Suskie of the coveted 300 score. He was awarded a free bowling ball by Ferraro's in recognition of the 299.

Arthritis Beds Charlie Finley

CHICAGO (UPI) — Charles O. Finley, owner of the three-time defending World Champion Oakland A's, was listed in satisfactory condition at Passavant Memorial Hospital early today with an arthritis condition.

A hospital spokeswoman said Finley was admitted Wednesday. "He's not seriously ill, that I can tell you," she said.

The 57-year-old sports and insurance magnate had asked not to be disturbed, she said.

Campbell Rule Affects Four

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — As the result of unprecedented action by National Hockey League President Clarence Campbell, the 1975-76 season will start late for four players.

Campbell announced Wednesday that Bob Plager of the St. Louis Blues and Dave Hutchinson of the Los Angeles Kings were suspended for five games each while Gene Carr of Los Angeles and Dave Williams of the Toronto Maple Leafs received two-game suspensions.

The four players were cited for incidents during the preliminary rounds of the playoffs and this is the first time since Campbell became president of the NHL in 1946 that he has suspended players for the start of a season as the result of incidents that took place the previous season.

Plager's suspension arose from an incident in a game against Pittsburgh April 10 for "deliberately charging referee Andy Van Hellemond into the boards." Van Hellemond sustained a back injury and was hospitalized.

Hutchinson, Williams and Carr all were suspended as the result of an incident in a game between Toronto and Los Angeles April 11.

Three Draft Choices Signed by Giants

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Giants announced the signing of three draft choices Wednesday, including West Virginia wide receiver Danny Buggs, Houston defensive back Robert Giblin and Tennessee place kicker Ricky Townsend.

The 6-foot 3, 185-pound Buggs was the Giants' third draft selection after he compiled a career total of 86 catches for 1,796 yards and 15 touchdowns. He has been clocked in 9.4 seconds for 100-yards.

Giblin, 6-2, 205-pounds, was the Giants' fourth selection. He had eight interceptions for 131 yards and led his team in punt returns and fumbles recovered.

Townsend, picked on the 13th round, is also 6-2, 205-pounds. He won fame as a barefoot kicker at Tennessee, hitting on 33 field goals and 72 of 77 conversion attempts.

Gerry Desjardins Owes the Gang a Favor

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Gerry Desjardins, vowing that he'll "have to return the favor to the fellows," puts his broad body back in the target area tonight when the Sabres seek to even their Stanley Cup championship series with Philadelphia.

"I feel I owe the guys something," Desjardins said after a practice session Wednesday. "They did a fantastic job of pulling it out after I put them in the hole, and now I'll have to return the favor."

Desjardins allowed the Flyers three goals on just six shots in the opening period Tuesday night before asking coach Floyd smith to remove him from the game. Roger Crozier then came in to replace Desjardins and Buffalo went on to win, 5-4.

Smith gave Desjardins an immediate vote of confidence for the crucial fourth game, saying, "He's played exceptionally well for me. He had a bad first period, no question about that. But I think he deserves the opportunity to comeback and redeem himself. "We got the first one and need three more. Tomorrow night is a very big game, then it comes down to two out of three."

Although Desjardins was beaten in the first two games in the finals before losing complete control Tuesday, the popular refugee from the World Hockey Association has the full support of his teammates.

"He played on several teams in the NHL and he was in the finals several years ago with Chicago, so you had to figure he's a winner," defenseman Larry Carriere said of Desjardins, who was signed by Buffalo late in the regular season. "When he came here he started to play well, and that's what we needed at this time."

Although it was Rene Robert who scored the winning goal in a thick fog, Buffalo's highly touted French Connection has been something short of sensational in this series. Prior to Tuesday, the trio of Robert, Gil Perreault and Richard Martin had managed just one goal in seven games.

"When they're tying up your number one line, it creates problems," Smith said,"but I don't worry about them. Someone else has to pick up the slack. You can't put all your eggs in one basket."

Robert admitted there has been a lot of pressure on the line, but he pointed out that Philadelphia for the most part has been using double-shifts on them.

Despite their tough overtime loss in humid, 90-degree temperature, the Flyers were in good spirits at a 9:30 workout Wednesday morning, and they were even able to joke about the fog, which could be a factor again tonight.

"Why should we be down," said defenseman Moose Dupont. "We're going to win the Stanley Cup."

As for the fog, Terry Crisp offered, "We're all going to wear a miner's helmet so we can see in the dark."

Coach Fred shero was more serious about the situation, though, and offered one of his usual gems of wisdom.

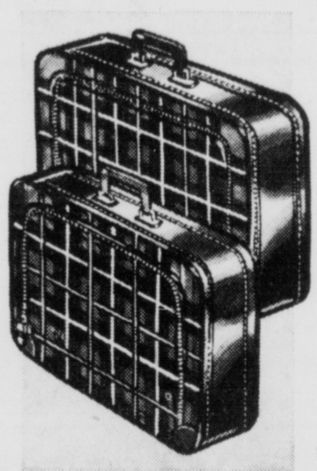

"Failure is never fatal," he said. "We failed last night. Failure to change is fatal. We'll make some changes."

Margaret Wilson Hurls No-Hit, No-Run Game

WALLKILL

Margaret Wilson, the sensational Wallkill High pitcher-slugger, turned in two more brilliant performances, pitching a no-hit, no-run, 19-0 victory over New Paltz High and coming back with a four-hit, 15-1 triumph over Ellenville High. The victories kept Wallkill atop the Ulster County Softball League standings with a perfect 7-0 record. Pine Bush is runnerup at 6-1.

Miss Vilson collected four hits, including two homers and two singles, for five runs batted in against New Paltz. She walked one batter in the seventh inning. Kathy May had a perfect "5 for 5" performance for Wallkill, with three singles, two doubles and four RBIs.

Miss Wilson homered again against Ellenville and knocked in two runs.

Errors Hurt KHS Team

KINGSTON

Kingston High's girls softball squad rallied with nine runs in the bottom of the seventh inning, but couldn't undo the damage of 11 errors, as they bowed to Poughkeepsie High 18-15 and lost more ground in their bid for the Dutchess County Girls Softball League title.

Ertha Burris stroked four singles for Kingston. Barb Myers hit a single and double. Barb Myers and Lori Eaton stroked homers. Rosetta Johnson led Poughkeepsie with three hits and Donna Dingee had a triple and single.

For Davis: Only 2.5 Million and Rolls Royce

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Anthony Davis drove off into the sunset Wednesday in a $42,000 1975 silver-blue Rolls Royce.

But that was only the sweetener.

The Rolls was an afterthought of a $2.5 million contract that Davis signed with the World Football League Southern California Sun, only last year a financially floundering enterprise that couldn't pay its bills.

"We felt we had to do something dramatic," said Larry Hatfield, Sun president and general manager. "We had a lot of problems last year which everyone knows about. We have a credibility problem."

The 21-year-old Davis left Southern California as the school's all-time rusher, eclisping the marks of Heisman Trophy winners O.J. Simpson and Mike Garrett with 3,724 yards and 52 touchdowns—11 of them against Notre Dame.

Davis was runner-up in Heisman Trophy balloting last year to Ohio State's Archie Griffin.

"I signed a five-year contract for $2.5 million," Davis said Wednesday. "Plus the Rolls Royce. I can't help but think how lucky I am ... how Mike Garrett and O.J. Simpson would have loved to have been able to stay in Southern California to play pro ball. There's so many USC football fans in Southern California, it'll seem like I'm still playing for USC but in a different uniform."

Davis, rated small by some pro scouts because he stands only 5-foot-9 and weighs 183 pounds, was a second-round draft choice of National Football League New York Jets.

"The Jets' offer for Davis wasn't even close to the Sun's," said Davis' 23-year-old agent, Mike Trope.

Trope negotiated Sun contracts last year for three highly rated college players—UCLA runners James McAlister and Kermit Johnson and USC tackle Booker Brown. All three have since become free agents after the Sun was unable to meet its payroll.

The Sun, under new management this year after its shaky financial start, gave Davis a contract that is "personally guaranteed by the club, league and Sun owner Sam Battistone," according to Trope.

Davis scored six touchdowns against Notre Dame as a sophomore in 1972, making famous his end zone dance, and last year romped for four TDs, including a 102-yard kickoff return, as USC defeated Notre Dame 55-24.

Davis also had been a standout baseball player at USC and turned down a pro contract offer from the Minnesota Twins.

Joe: It's Not the Money

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI) — Joe Namath played a round of golf in the town where he went to college as his attorneys and lawyers for the World Football League (WFL) tried Wednesday to iron out the rough spots in a proposed $4 million contract.

Namath, who played collegiate ball for the University of Alabama, has played out his option with the New York Jets of the National Football League and is free to sign with any team he chooses.

The WFL's Chicago Wind has offered Namath, a 10-year veteran pro quarterbak, who said he expects to play pro football "three more years at least," a $4 million contract.

"It's an interesting contract, but a lot of points need to be ironed out before I sign with New York or Chicago," Namath said during a recent interview.

Namath said money was not the prime consideration for making the switch "at this stage in negotiations. I think what the Wind is offering is fair, maybe more than fair. I want to play football and I'll play for Chicago if the deal is proper."

Namath has been sidelined numerous times by injuries, mostly knee problems. Though he said he could play another three years if he stayed healthy, the quarterback said he could not accurately predict how much longer he would play football because "it depends on what kinds of injuries come up in the future."

The WFL's stability, Namath said, did not concern him because "there are some very smart people behind the league at this time and if anyone can make it work they can."

Seniors Golf Next Week

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Tommy Bolt, Willie Barber and Ellsworth Vines are just some of the "ageless" golf professionals who will be competing in the fifth annual U.S. National Senior Golfer's Association Spring tournament next week.

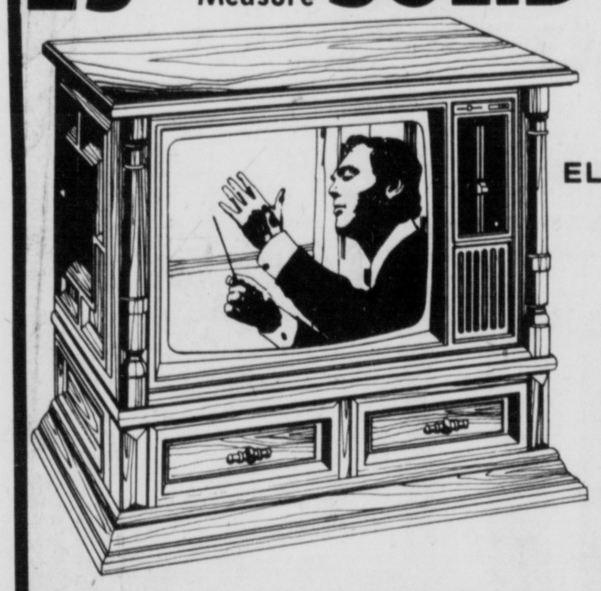

The $15,000 event has attracted a field of 52 professionals — all 50 years of age and older — and 280 amateurs who will tee up May 28-29 at Canyon Country Club.

The Spring Tournament was won last year by Harry Umbinetti and Fred Atkins, who deadlocked for the title, and before that by Jack Koennecker who captured the tournament three years in a row.

Other senior pros entered include Labron Harris, Phil Greenwalk, Erick Monti, Eddie Nowak, Cecil Harris and Joe Kirkwood.

IOC Excludes Rhodesia

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (UPI) — The International Olympic Committee Thursday voted to exclude Rhodesia from all Olympic sport.

Monique Berlioux, director of the IOC, said the vote was 41-26 for Rhodesia's explusion.

Rhodesia will join South Africa as the only countries which are not allowed to take part in the Olympic Games. The IOC decided that Rhodesia's Olympic Committee did not conform to IOC rules because sport is not integrated at the local level throughout the country.

Meanwhile, the confidence of Montreal organizers that their city would be ready for the 1976 games was not shared by the IOC, which has asked the Canadians to consider alternative stadiums for at least two sports.

This emerged Thursday as the IOC digested the optimistic report made by Roger Rousseau, the games president, and Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau, which some members said they found difficult to swallow whole.

"There are still many questions to be answered by the Canadians, particularly about the alternative sites," said Willy Daume, a former IOC president. "Not everything they said appeared realistic."

The chief area of disagreement is in the suggestion that contingency plans be drawn up to stage the track and field and swimming events elsewhere in case the main stadium and swimming arena are not completed in time.

In a news conference Wednesday, Drapeau dismissed any ideas of contingency planning as pointless.

"It is not realistic to think there can be a subsitute to facilites we are building," Drapeau said. "We need all out time, money and imagination for the main project."

Drapeau's argument was that if the stadium now under construction were delayed by new strikes, these strikes would also affect automatically any alternative sites.

He said he was "more confident than ever" the games would start on schedule on July 17 next year.

"The work stoppages of the last two weeks have in no way affected the critical tasks and the work will be finished on time. I am not inventing that. I have the word of the professionals who are doing the building," Drapeau said.

But the IOC's anxiety about Montreal's problems was apparent when it asked the Montreal delegation to be ready to answer more questions today.

★ ★ ★

MONTREAL (UPI) — Olympic organizers reopened the Olympic Park today after a two-week strike by construction workers and readjusted their schedules to ensure completion of facilities for the 1976 Summer Games.

Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau told the International Olympic Committee in Lausanne, Switzerland, Wednesday he was "more confident than ever" the Olympics will open on schedule July 17, 1976.

Drapeau and officials of the Montreal Olympic organizing committee (COJO) were called before the IOC to present a progress report on work on the Games facilities in view of the latest construction delay.

"I feel if some of them (IOC members) were scared, they now have much to talk and think about and they did not show any real sign of anxiety," Drapeau said after his three-hour session with the IOC.

After a two-month strike at the Olympic Park last December and January, the IOC asked for regular progress reports. When the latest work stoppage began, the IOC expressed concern over Montreal's ability to stage the Games.

The latest wildcat strike by construction workers began May 8 to protest Quebec government plans to reform the building industry. The government was acting on a year-long study which uncovered evidence of widespread corruption and violence in the trade.

The 500 workers employed at the Olympic Village, where athletes are to be accomodated during the Games, returned to work Monday. The 1,500 men working on the $380 million stadium complex were called back today.

Stitchery Expert Verna Holt during Saugerties demonstration.

Author-Artist Perfects Method of Embroidering With Sewing Machine

By Dorothy A. Narel

"I can't remember never embroidering," author and artist Verna Holt said recently in Saugerties, N.Y.

In town for her first area guest lecture and instruction session, Mrs. Holt, a leader in her field, gives "flower children" a good deal of credit for the resurgence of interest in handwork.

"They really brought the art back into the limelight," she said.

Mrs. Holt is author of Machine Embroidery and Yarn Stitchery but more than this, she is also interested in journalism and has written a movie script. The script has been accepted and will be produced in the near future, she says. The story is based on the life of Johnny Appleseed.

What makes Mrs. Holt unique is that she has perfected a method for embroidering with a sewing machine. She works on a Swiss made Bernina but claims that any zig zag machine can be used.

Embroidery, as we know it, is ornamental stitching on selected fabrics. And crewel embroidery, which Mrs. Holt says can be also done on the machine, is as old as antiquity. In Exodus there is reference to embroidered curtains of the tabernacle and the embroidered robes of priests. Of course, crewel work, as we know it today, stems from stitchery of the Tree of Life designs. These were popular in 16th and 17th Century England.

Since publication of her book, Mrs. Holt has been a frequent guest on TV shows with such celebrities as Barbara Walters and Dinah Shore. It was to Ulster County's credit that she appeared at the Buttonhole Fabric Shop in Saugerties.

During the Saugerties lecture-session, Mrs. Holt demonstrated how her unusual decorative techniques can be duplicated by anyone on a sewing machine. She uses "free hand" embroidery, a technique for creative expression which produces magnificent pieces of artwork in a fraction of the time it would take to do by hand.

However, as Verna Holt points out in her book, "free hand" machine embroidery is not really new. It was done on straight stitch treadle machines in the early 19th century. Until recently, many thought these arts could only be done on commercial sewing machines but, according to Verna Holt, a good home sewing machine has almost limitless potential in this field.

"With only a little practice, you can produce designs that look like hand embroidery or crewel work," she says.

Because Mrs. Holt liked the handcraft so much, she was always on the look-out for books pertaining to the subject. She bemoaned the fact that books, which seemed to be printed only in England, "were so far-out." She decided, therefore, to remedy the situation by writing her own book and gearing it to "language everybody could understand."

The book has received wide distribution and is into its second printing.

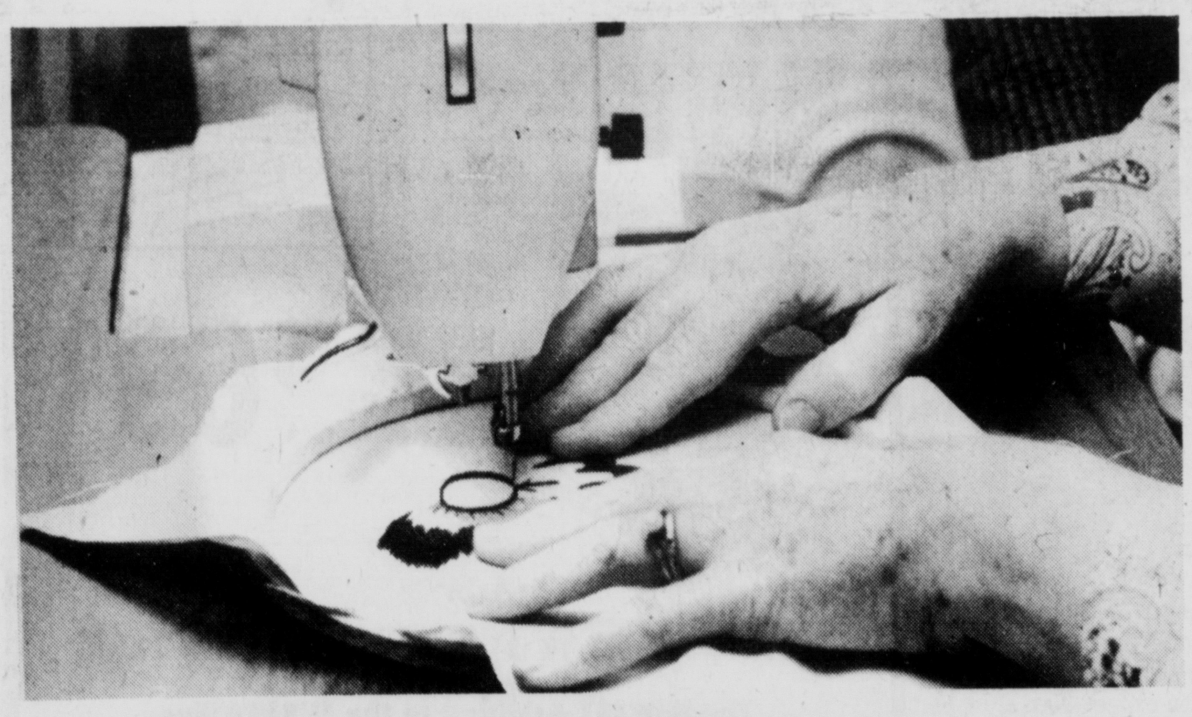

After her Saugerties appearance, Mrs. Holt's itinerary includes stops in Cortland, Rochester and Buffalo, N.Y. She will be on tour for about a month.

Home to Mrs. Holt is Las Vegas, Nev., where she resides with her husband, Dr. Donald Holt, a dentist. They have three grown children.

A charming and personable individual, Mrs. Holt says: "I am not an exotic person. In my book I have tried to make the information and instructions very palatable. I also included many of my own designs which can be easily transferred."

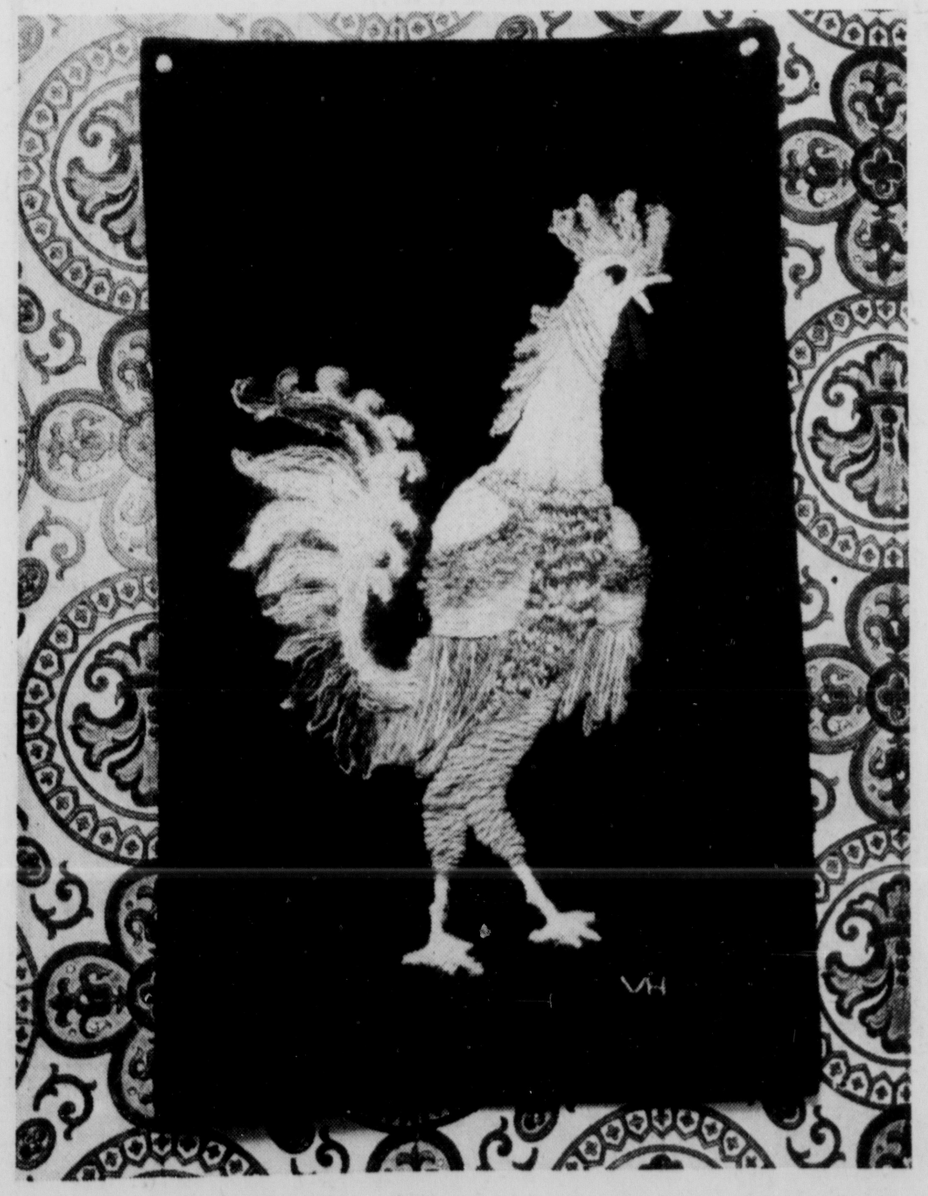

The lecture room at The Buttonhole was jammed with women interested in learning about the quick method of embroidering.

But in spite of the continued interest in machine stitchery, Mrs. Holt claims, ". . . home hand stitching will never die out."

A close-up of the Art of Embroidering by machine.

Since publication of her book, Mrs. Holt has been a frequent guest on TV shows with such celebrities as Barbara Walters and Dinah Shore. It is to Ulster County's credit that she appeared at the Buttonhole Fabric Shop in Saugerties.

Community Efforts Benefit Children's Fund

Through the joint efforts of the Board of Directors, staff and community members, the Children's Home, 26 Grove Street, Kingston, will sponsor its second Trash and Treasure Sale. The event is slated for Saturday, May 24 from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the Grove Street facility. Proceeds from the sale will be used for the "Children's Fund," which provides for special activities (like roller skating, attendance at sports events, entrance fees to parks and other recreational facilities.) By providing more involvement in community based activities, the Home seeks to develop and encourage socially acceptable forms of behavior in the children under care. Children's Fund money is also used to provide monthly allowances for the children and birthday presents both of which help to develop self-esteem and make life at the agency more homelike.

The Trash and Treasure Sale is under the chairmanship of Mrs. James De Rose with publicity provided by Mrs. Neil Whitehurst. Board members working on the event include: Mrs. Raymond Coles, Mrs. John Alley, Mrs. Edward De Groff, Mrs. Robert Diamond, Mrs. Bernard Farrell, Mrs. Jack Gill, Mrs. Arthur Hazenbush, Mrs. William Hilton, Mrs. William Hobbs III, Mrs. Lloyd Le Fever, Mrs. Robert Marks, Mrs. Peter O'Hara, Mrs. Abraham Streifer, Mrs. Collins Troy and Mrs. Kendall Vogt.

Donations of merchandise have also been received from local merchants and many residents throughout Ulster County. Contributors include Tom Scali, Tillson; Mr. and Mrs. Alex Plitkins, Shokan; Patrick Burke, Stone Ridge; Mrs. Joseph Smith, Hurley; and Mr. and Mrs. Sheehan, Saugerties.

UCCC Names Committee For 'Women's Year'

Dr. Erna Moss, campus coordinator for International Women's Year at UCCC, has announced the formation of an 11-member committee to coordinate plans for International Women's Year.

The year 1975 has been designed by the United Nations as International Women's Year and President Ford and Governor Carey have issued special proclamations to honor this year. In addition, the State University Board of Trustees has endorsed a University-wide celebration of the special year.

The committee, which recently held its first meeting, affirmed the following goals of International Women's Year: to promote equality between men and women; full participation of women in economic, social and cultural developments; recognition of the role of women in international cooperation and world peace.

The committee discussed plans for Saturday, October 18, the date which has been declared International Women's Day by Chancellor Ernest Boyer of the State University of New York.

Some of the proposed plans call for a "Women and Health Care Seminar," which will be sponsored by the UCCC Nursing Club Members; a library and art exhibit geared to women artists and writers; a concert performed by women musicians with music written by women composers; a consciousness raising seminar with well-known speakers; and a series of assertiveness workshops.

The members of the committee are Jo Ann M. Cicale, secretary, Community Relations Office; Peggy DeStefano, Instructor of Criminal Justice; Joan Lyke, secretary, College Activities; Gerit Martino, alumnus; Roy Meyerhoff, Assistant Professor of English; Dr. Erna Moss, chairman of the Department of Foreign Languages and Coordinator of the Committee; Ruth Muroff, Professor Emeritus; Jacqueline Olsen, representative of the UCCC Faculty Women's Association; Raivo Puusemp, Assistant Director of Instructional Resources; Yvonne Shartran, Student; and Marjory Unser, Associate Librarian, along with Dr. James Canniff, Associate Dean of Faculty.

New Officers

Zena Garden Club installed new officers recently at its annual dinner which took place at The Beef House in Kingston. Heading the Club for the coming year will be (l-r) Betty Draminski, treasurer; Kay Wilson, first vice president; Judy Burgess, second vice president; and Judy Honeywood, president. (Freeman photo)

Festival at Old Dutch Church

The Spring Festival sponsored by the Women's Guild of Old Dutch Church will be held Friday, May 30 in Bethany Hall from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. There will be booths featuring handmade articles, homebaked goods, imported Dutch cheeses, books, plants, and on consignment, decorated plaques, paintings and handcrafts from the Annville Institute. Tours of the church will be conducted during the day and a luncheon is planned at noon. Donations for the booths may be left at the church office, at Bethany Hall on the day preceding the Festival, or donors may contact Guild Presidents Mrs. Charles Reis and Mrs. George Krom. Displaying articles to be offered for sale are (l-r) Emily Darrow, Jill Krom, Keith Rosier, Mrs. H. Van Wyck Darrow, Peter Rosier, seated on fence, and Mrs. George Krom, chairman. Also participating are Mrs. Charles Bouton, telephone committee, and Mrs. Edward Schrowang, luncheon chairman. All of the festivities are open to the public.

Victorian Holiday at Mohonk

The second annual Victorian Holiday scheduled June 2-6 at the Mohonk Mountain House will commemorate the second anniversary of the entry of this complex to the National Register of Historic Places.

This year's weeklong program of events will concentrate on decorative arts, architecture and history.

Between lectures and discussions, there will be outings and activities for fun and relaxation.

Local personages taking part in this Victorian Holiday schedule will include Herbert H. Cutler, president of the Ulster County Historical Society; Ruth Smiley, horticulturist and landscape designer; Keith Smiley, a Mohonk historian; Daniel Smiley, naturalist and conservationist and Katherine T. Terwilliger, Ellenville town historian.

The weeklong program will begin Monday, June 2, with a welcome tea in the Lake Lounge. Closing day, Friday, June 6, will feature a farewell luncheon at 12:30 p.m.

No Dance Friday

Due to the Memorial Day weekend, there will be no regular club dance Friday night for Lefooters Western Square Dance Club. However, a banner raid to another club is planned. Details and traveling directions are available from Gay or Joe Font of Kingston, or Jean and Frank Steltz of Kingston.

The next regular dance is planned for May 30 with guest caller, Garnet May. The final round-of-the-month workshop for this year will also take place.

A Leading Event in Zena

The T-Shirt Design Contest, sponsored by the Zena School Parents' Association, was actually an event leading to the second annual Country Fair which will be held Saturday, May 31, with a rain date for Sunday, June 1, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Zena Elementary School. Corrina Haberland, winner of the T-shirt design contest, is shown in photo with Lucille Schechter, merchandising editor for Harper's Bazaar, who has a summer home in Lake Hill and Chuck Weiss, one of the owners of the Woodstock Antiques and Desmond-Weiss Gallery. They will act as judges for this year's contest as part of the Country Fair. Many new attractions have been scheduled as well. (Freeman photo)

Special Program at W. Hurley

West Hurley Pre-school Parents Group will hold a program entitled "Behavior Modification with Young Children: A New Child Psychology," this evening at 8 o'clock in the West Hurley School cafeteria.

Dr. Robert J. Presbie, associate professor, Psychology Department, State University College at New Paltz, will present the program, using colored slides and movie clips to show how behavior modification works. He will show the results of the project as determined by parents, teachers and others who have used it successfully in the Mid-Hudson Valley and in other areas of the country. Included in the program will be a discussion of the basic principles of behavior and specific procedures which anyone can use.

There is no charge for this program and all those interested are invited. Refreshments will be served.

Day Care Center Chairmen Named

Donald Argentina, president of the Northern Dutchess Day Care Center, Inc., has announced the appointment of chairmen of the standing committees of the Board of Directors of the Association.

The appointments, which are for one year terms, are Susan Ochs, personnel; Peggy Kiely, admissions; Fred Wienberg, house and grounds; Hayward Schwartz, health; Denise Velardi, membership; Jacqueline Witte, volunteers; Betty Stolz, transportation; Jill Botstein, program; Barbara Streib, nominating; Linda Kollett, public relations.

The Northern Dutchess Day Care Center is a United Way Agency.

Sloop Club Meets Tonight

Members of the Kingston Sloop Club will meet this evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Warren and Anna Mary Robinson, 126 Hurley Avenue, Kingston. One of the largest events ever planned by the Club, the sixth Sloop birthday party which is set for Sunday, June 22, will be finalized at tonight's meeting.

The birthday party will feature at least two concerts, with Pete Seeger headlining the show, and many local persons performing.

Volunteers are needed to help in the distribution of posters, selling tickets, and in making arrangements for picnic-type refreshments. New faces are always welcome at meetings. All attending are asked to bring food or beverage.

YWCA Bus Trips Being Planned

Bus trips are being planned by YWCA, 209 Clinton Avenue, Kingston.

A trip to Albany Institute of History and Art is scheduled for Thursday, May 29. A guided tour will be given of the oldest museum in New York State. Free time will be available at Colonie. Bus will leave YWCA at 9 a.m. and return at 5 p.m. Deadline is May 26.

On Tuesday, June 10, a sightseeing trip to New York City is planned. There will be a list of free exhibits in walking distance of each other. Bus leaves the Y at 8 a.m., returning at 5 p.m. Reservations must be made by June 6.

Those planning to attend are asked to be ready to board the bus 15 minutes ahead of leaving time.

Free with every Chase car loan of $2,000 or more.

There may not be anything special about giving you a car loan. But there is something a little special when one bank, Chase, goes out of its way to give you something free with a car loan.

An emergency kit that contains an aerosol fire extinguisher, good for all types of small fires, even electrical, oil or grease.

An aerosol tire inflater, with a latex sealer that inflates and seals flat tires in less than a minute.

An emergency blinker with a large suction cup base that you can position on your car top or at roadside (batteries not included).

A high-intensity spotlight with a 12-foot cord that plugs into your cigarette lighter.

Eight-foot booster cables. Six-foot gas siphon pump. A first-aid kit complete with a 25-page first-aid book.

All in a handsome luggage-like carrying case.

You get the Chase Highway Emergency Kit when you get your money.

Just sign up for a car loan before June 30, 1975 and Chase will reserve the money for up to one hundred days, at no charge, so you can shop around for a good deal on a new or late model used car. As soon as you find the car, you get your money and your emergency kit.

If you're an electrician, a salesman, a nurse or anybody looking for a practical free gift with your car loan, look into your nearest Chase branch. Who knows? You might even open a practical Chase checking account.

Piano Teachers Should Play Second Fiddle

By Abigail Van Buren

1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: "Perplexed Pianist," a piano teacher, asked, "If I play a number or two at my students' recital, would I be accused of showing off?"

You requested comments from experienced piano teachers. Among my former pupils are Shirley Temple, Harpo Marx and Dana Andrews, so perhaps I qualify.

If the piano recital involves beginners, the teacher should not perform solo because the discrepancy between her advanced playing and that of her pupils would be too great.

However, the teacher could play a duet with some of her students — with the teacher playing the bass part in order to give the pupil all the "glory."

Or the teacher could give a short lecture, demonstrating the various styles of playing and mentioning some of the outmoded disciplines to which kids were subjected in the past. (For example, pupils had to play while balancing a coin or button on the backs of their hands, and if the button fell off, they'd get whacked with a ruler.)

Such a demonstration would be both entertaining and informative.

FELIX DE COLA

DEAR FELIX: For another piano teacher's point of view, read on:

DEAR ABBY: I have been a piano teacher for half a century, and unless times have changed, the purpose of a recital is to show the parents what their children have learned and to help the students gain confidence by performing in public. It is definitely not to entertain the parents. If the teacher wants to "perform," let him give his own recital.

HIGHLAND PARK, ILL.

DEAR ABBY: If you arrived at a party and saw another woman wearing a dress exactly like the one you were wearing, what would you do?

HAPPENED TO ME

DEAR HAPPENED: Probably the same thing any other woman would do. I'd manage a weak smile and utter some banality about our both having "good taste." (P.S. I would not, as some women have been known to do, rush home to change.)

DEAR ABBY: I say "hurray" for that little old lady who got the gumption to replace her lost dentures, even though she had to plunder other residents of the convalescent home to do it.

I work as a speech therapist in homes for the aged, and my biggest problem is that most of these old folks refuse to wear dentures even when they have them. The result is that their faces fall in, their speech becomes thick and unintelligible and they are soon limited to mushy foods.

The poor dear probably thought she was robbed, so her philosophy was, "A tooth for a tooth."

"SPEECHIE"

DEAR SPEECHIE: Maybe so. But "he who takes what isn't his'n must give it back, or go to prison."

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Parents Group Wants Programs

NEW PALTZ

Duzine Interested Parents (DIP), of the Duzine School in New Paltz, has called for several programs designed to improve the New Paltz schools.

DIP called for:

• Board of education members and candidates to make public the persons in their immediate families presently employed or housed in New Paltz schools.

• More communication between parents and school in two open-mike meetings a year.

• Less responsibility for classroom teachers in supervising student teachers.

• Secession immediately by the Duzine School from any contract with the State Uni- to make it a learning center until there is a full and open discussion of the contract.

• A system-wide curriculum committee of three teachers from each school.

• The ratio of aides to children be increased to one trained adult for every 40 children.

• Partial fencing-in of the Duzine playground.

• No standardized testing next year while more effective ways of teacher and pupil evaluation are explored.

• Elimination of separation of children by sex in gym classes, on the playground, in the classroom and lunchroom, either by intent or oversight on a day-to-day basis.

Cow Course Record

KERHONKSON

Rondout Pride Olaity is a heavy duty Holstein from Kerhonkson.

The cow, owned by Philip H. Davis, officially produced a half ton of butterfat during its recently completed lactation period of 305 days in a total 23,730 pounds of milk.

It's sort of like the four minute mile for cows, although the Holstein-Friesian Association of America, headquartered in Brattleboro, Vt., notes there are in excess of 4,000 such cows on record.

Roudout Pride Olaity was bred in the Davis herd, and sired by Ellbank Admiral Ormsby Pride, a bull that has earned Bold Medal Sire recognition.

Famed Psychologist to Speak

NEW PALTZ

Jean Piaget, household name in world psychology, will address a two-day conference at the Nevele Country Club in Ellenville June 11 and 12.

Piaget, from Geneva, Switzerland is coming to the area as a result of the efforts of the faculty of education and the Office of Continuing Education of the SUNY at New Paltz.

The program will consist of a keynote address by Piaget. He will also be interviewed by a panel consisting of: Dr. Jane Raph, professor of education psychology, Rutgers University; Dr. James T. Fleming, professor of education, SUNY at Albany; Dr. Boyd McCandless, professor of psychology, Emory University, Atlanta, Ga.; Harley Shands, M.D., professor of Psychology, Harvard Garduate School of Education.

Piaget's research has defined stages and characteristics of intellectual growth. Although his main concern has not been teaching, educators and psychologist alike are struck by the power of his ideas when applied to instruction.

The notion of the child as an active learner in a rich and stimulating experimental environment, responsive to the social interaction of peers and adults, has resulted in a significant amount of research in child development and teaching. The new look at childhood stems largely from Dr. Piaget's theories and research.

Workshops, interest group sessions, an informal hour of audience and speaker interaction, and a panel discussion will also be part of the two day conference program. Further information may be obtained from the Office of Continuing Education, SUNY at New Paltz.

Local Society Plans 'Living Memorial'

KINGSTON

With Memorial Day approaching, the Ulster County Unit of the American Cancer Society is planning special emphasis on its "living memorial program," according to Robert C. Randall, 1975 crusade chairman.

"Making a contribution to the memorial fund is a fitting and practical way to help save the living and commemorate a loved, one who has died of cancer or other causes," Randall noted.

"ACS funds, including memorial gifts, go to save lives at present and many times more in the future through coordinated education, research and service programs," Randall said.

Contributions are received throughout the year and in the past eight months have totaled $7,511.80, he noted. ACS sends a memorial card to the family of the person in whose memory the gift is made and also sends an acknowledgement and receipt to the donor.

"On behalf of the Ulster County Unit, I urge thoughtful support of the living memorial program on the approaching Memorial Day," Randall said. "This support will help save those alive today from the tragedy of cancer."

THE SHAPE OF THINGS TO COME

(UPI)

Flying X — Jet of the Future

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (UPI) — The next generation of the passenger jet may be a flying X, with a moveable wing that crosses the fusilage at a 45 or 60 degree angle so one tip points forward and the other backward.

You think such a weird craft would be off balance and spin into earth with a couple of hundred passengers?

Not so, despite the tradition of the straight wing design of a World War I Spad, or the outstretched wing image of a bird.

It turns out that at speeds of 500 to 900 miles an hour an X design is far and away the most efficient.

At NASA's Ames Research Center, the X design is being pushed by Robert T. Jones, an imaginative theoretician credited with development of the swept-back wings of conventional jets.

A German dreamed up the oblique-wing idea in 1943, and Jones had the same vision two years later at Langley Field. But the notion seemed ridiculous, and Jones shoved his drawing back in the desk drawer.

The problem was not flight instability; rather, the fact that if both wings point forward, they develop so much lift at high speed that they break off.

A few years ago Jones had a new thought. Perhaps this would not necessarily happen with an X design. Jones did some equations but concluded the problem remained the same, until a friend pointed out that Jones had made a simple mistake in one of the equations.

The oblique wing, Jones explained, is more efficient because it develops less drag at the wing tips and the point where the wing crosses the fusilage.

In the Ames wind tunnel a model X jetliner developed a record high ratio of lift to drag, and a remote control model has flown at 100 miles an hour.The design is under study by the Boeing Commercial Airplane Co. as well as by NASA.

A flying X would take off in a conventional shape, with the wing at 90 degrees to the fusilage, which is the most efficient up to 500 miles an hour. Then the wing would pivot to an oblique angle.

Turning the wing in midflight, Jones said, takes little power. It is much simpler than retracting landing gear. The problem for engineers would be bringing fuel and electrical connections through the pivot, but Jones said this would not be difficult.

The X is a transonic plane, much faster than conventional jet transports but not as fast as the supersonic Concorde or the Soviet Tupolev 144, which operate around Mach 2.

But the X seems to have advantages over these SSTs. It can fly efficiently at lower altitudes, eliminating danger potentially posed by SSTs to the earth's ozone region.

Over land an X can cruise below the high altitude "sonic boom speed limit" of 750 m.p.h., a limit that makes the SST less practical for transcontinental flight. Over water the X could accelerate to 900 m.p.h., less than an SST but still a very high speed.

From New York to Honolulu, an X would make the trip an hour faster than the SST, which would be slowed by the speed limit over land and the need to make a refueling stop. From the East to West Coast, the X would cut an hour or two off the current time of conventional jets.

Another advantage would be fuel economy, an important factor because commercial aircraft consume 4 per cent of the nation's petroleum. At top speed and fully loaded, an X would get 30 or 40 miles to the gallon per passenger, twice the mileage of an SST.

"Eventually, I think the oblique wing will re place the swept-back wing designs of our subsonic jets," Jones said. "It will not replace the straight wing design of planes with lower speeds."

Jones, 65, became interested in aviation as a high school student carrying gas for a Waldo Pepper-type flying circus. After one year of college, Jones "talked an aircraft company into thinking I was an aeronautical engineer," and designed a 200 m.p.h. plane to compete in the 1930 National Air Races.

He learned his aerodynamics in night school and on the job, mostly with the government. Now a senior NASA staff scientist, he contributed to the theory of slender delta wings and, in 1945, developed the swept-wing concept, an idea so radical two years passed before it was published.

Just as with the swept wing, the X wing is being met with caution. Jones wants NASA to spend $5 million to experiment with his X wing on a Navy F8 research plane.

"I get no argument about the design," he said. "It's just hard to get headquarters' attention."

Lifeline for Stricken Tot

KANKAKEE, Ill. (UPI) — The terror began for Carla Martin shortly after midnight.

Brad, her 19-day-old son, lay on the living room couch beside her. She was watching him closely because he was still recovering from a slight cold he had developed. It was a lonely vigil. Her husband, Roger, was in LaCrosse, Wis., for the weekend with the National Guard, and her twoyear-old son, Chad, was asleep.

Suddenly, wracking coughs broke the silence and then Brad lay still. Prickles came creeping up the back of Mrs. Martin's spine. Even before she bent over him she knew he was no longer breathing. In a panic she shook him, but instead of reviving he began to take on a bluish-gray color.

Fighting to stay calm, she raced for the phone, dialed the operator and asked that an inhalator be sent to her home. The operator, Mrs. Frances Chandler, asked her to repeat the information to be sure it was accurate. The forced calm Mrs. Martin had maintained disintegrated as she began frantically screaming, "What'll I do?"

During her 35 years as a telephone operator, Mrs. Chandler had dealt with many emergencies and now her experience became a lifeline for Brad and his mother. After notifying the emergency squad, she asked Mrs. Martin if she was familiar with mouth to mouth resuscitation. When the mother said no, the operator gave quick, concise instructions. As Mrs. Martin forced air into the tiny lungs, Mrs. Chandler continued to reassure her that help was on its way.

It came even sooner than expected. Cruising in his patrol car one-half mile away from the Martin home, policeman Ronald Riml picked up the emergency call. He knew the inhalator would already be on its way, but he also knew he was closer and for an infant with respiratory problems a minute can mean the difference between life and death.

Arriving at the house, he met Mrs. Martin at the door and piled her and both children into the patrol car. As they raced to the hospital, Mrs. Martin continued revival efforts. Although the infant was still blue, he was making occasional rasping sounds.

At St. Mary's Hospital, an alerted nurse from the emergency room was waiting outside the door to take Brad to the doctor on call. Mrs. Martin and Riml waited with Chad in the quiet of the hospital for a word for a sign that they had been in time. Finally it came. It was only a small cry, but to them it was a beautiful sound; it meant Brad was alive.

"I really don't feel like I've done anything to help," said Mrs. Chandler. But Mrs. Martin insists that without the telephone operator's help, Brad might not be alive today.

"I took them to the hospital because I knew the emergency squad had to come a longer distance," said Riml.

Council Recognition Fete

KINGSTON — Kenton H. Knickmeyer, Nissen Lane, West Hurley, was reelected president of the Rip Van Vinkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, at the annual council meeting and recognition dinner Tuesday evening, May 20, at Ulster County Community College.

Vice Presidents elected are: Nelson Barnett, West Hurley; Donald C. Donohue, Woodstock; Donald F. Murphy, Woodstock; and Kenneth P. Pangburn, Kingston.

Erwin A. Tate, Saugerties, was re-elected council commissioner, and Leland G. Oathout, Woodstock, was re-elected treasurer.

Also elected were members of the Council Executive Board, the Advisory Council, representatives to the National Council, and council members at large.

Knickmeyer, a veteran Scouter with service at unit, district, and Council level, reported on the progress of the Rip Van Winkle Council the past year, highlighted by service to an increasing percentage of youth, expanded and improved year-round camping programs, and expanded unit service. He cautioned those present with the challenge facing the council to adequately finance an expanding program while coping with the twin problem of inflation and recession.

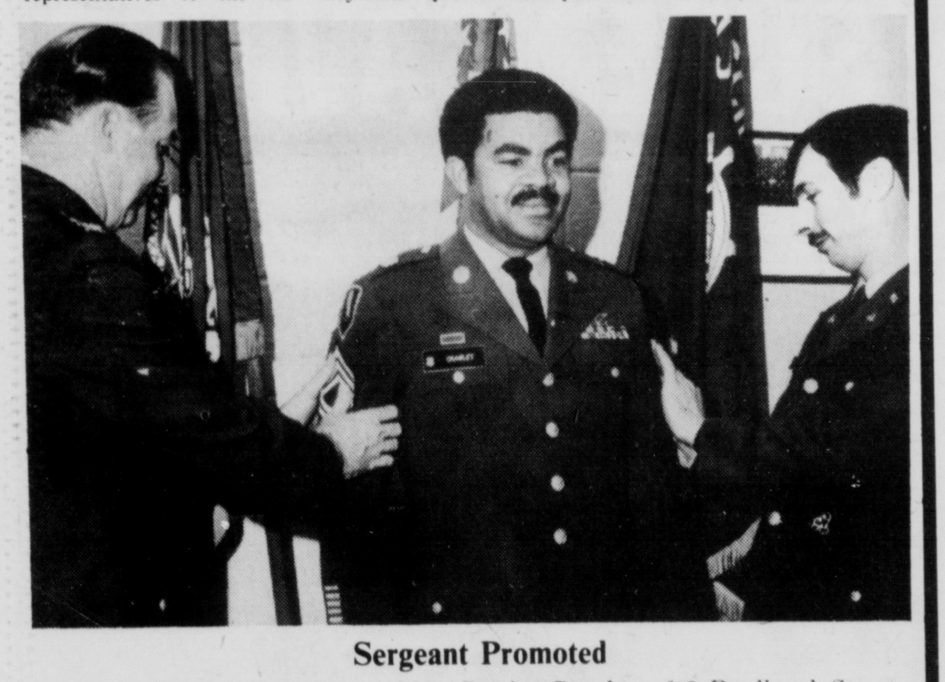

The nominating slate for elections was presented by H. Clark Bell, council nominating chairman.

Silver Beaver Chairman Raymond Quackenbush presented the Silver Beaver recognition for distinguished service to youth to Alan P. McCorkle, Stone Ridge, and Mrs. Virginia Post, Catskill.

Guest speaker Henry J. Nave, Allentown, Pa., inspired the assembled Scouters, lady Scouters, and spouses with his message emphasizing the importance of Scouting to America and each local community, and the significant service given by volunteer Scout leaders.

Nave, Chairman of Mack Trucks, Inc., is President of the Northeast Region, Boy Scouts of America.

The Rip Van Winkle Council serves more than 4,400 boys and young adults in communities throughout Greene and Ulster counties. It is a member of the United Way of Ulster County.

Sen. Goldwater Hits Foreign Policy Via Telephone Speech

BARRY GOLDWATER

By Carl Graham

NEWBURGH

Senator Barry Goldwater spoke in Newburgh Wednesday—by telephone—but couldn't have done much better if he had been there in person.

The Arizona Republican was the featured speaker at the National Security Seminar sponsored by the Industrial College of the Armed Forces and the Greater Newburgh Chamber of Commerce, which continues until Friday on the campus of Mount Saint Mary College.

Addressing an audience largely of armed forces reservists, Goldwater—a 34-year veteran of active and reserve duty and currently an Air Force Reserve brigadier general—proved he knew the language of his listeners. Heads nodded in agreement as he spoke and he drew several rounds of sustained applause, although he was unable to hear them because of troubles with the telephone hookup.

His speech furnished few surprises. An advocate of the "big stick" theory of military preparedness, he spoke to a receptive audience. Politically he furnished no surprises either, his brand of rock-ribbed conservatism being essentially unchanged since his unsuccessful 1964 bid for the presidency.

He began by explaining that a roll call vote on a military appropriation bill had prevented him from appearing in person. He waited patiently while technicians struggled to eliminate feedback from the telephone amplifier. Air fans finally had to be turned off so the audience could hear him, but the unpredictable sound system and the sweltering heat were ignored when he warmed to hs speech.

He drew applause by ascribing the nation's present difficulties to "a weak foreign policy, not because of the men in uniform." His loudest applause came when he said: "Our biggest mistake was in not saying we would win that (Vietnamese) war as fast as we could."

He said that because of our failure to win the war in Vietnam "I have called for a complete reassessment of our foreign policy."

His formula for a new foreign policy is "a strong military, a strong national will, and a commander-in-chief with a strong heart."

He predicted the nation hasn't seen the last of Cambodian-type incidents. "I thank God that our present commander-in-chief acted like a commander-in-chief should have acted," he said of President Ford's actions in recovering the cargo ship Mayaguez.

Goldwater predicted continuing strong congressional support for the armed forces. "Many members of congress are looking at their political hole cards and saying "I'd better not vote against military appropriations.' "

Asked from the audience if he felt President Ford had conferred with congressional leaders sufficiently before ordering the Mayaguez recovery, Goldwater said he felt he had.

"He is the commander-in-chief and doesn't have to confer with congress if he doesn't want to," he said. "His sole job is foreign policy—he has men on the National Security Council who have spent their lives making foreign policy decisions. When he talks to Congress he is talking to people who know next to nothing about foreign policy."

Many of the questions from the predominantly military audience were technical, and he handled the technical language like the veteran reservist he is. Asked about the fate of the proposed B-2 bomber, he noted that in terms of 1970 dollars its cost had increased only 12 percent "and it has proven to be a better aircraft than we thought it was. We will have a sufficient number to adequately fill the Strategic Air Command's role."

Asked to evaluate Henry Kissinger's effectiveness as secretary of state, Goldwater said he felt the situation in the Middle East was critical. "If war breaks out there by August or September, I think Secretary Kissinger's days are probably over. He is in a period of test right now."

Asked for his views on admitting women to the service academies, he said: "Women do just as well as men in clerical jobs, but I am opposed to putting them into the academies. I cannot conceive of a woman flying a combat plane or taking up a rifle in a front line unit with men." (Applause).

Speaking of the great numbers of civilians working for the armed forces "you won't believe this, but there are 2,400 civilians in the office of the Secretary of Defense alone") he said it was possible to eliminate at least 35 percent of them.

AREA NEWS TODAY

Fish Thinks Resentment Has Subsided

WASHINGTON,D.C.

Cong. Hamilton Fish Jr. (R-25th Dist.) will be winging toward Russia tonight where he hopes to receive a much warmer reception in May than he might have if he'd gone in January as originally scheduled.

"I think the high level of resentment that the Russians displayed has subsided somewhat," Fish told the Freeman shortly before leaving with members of the House Subcommittee on Immigration, Naturalization and International Law for a nine-day visit which will include stops at Paris, Leningrad, Moscow, Kiev and Vienna.

By "high level of resentment" Fish was referring to a trade agreement last December between the United States and the Soviet Union which gives the Russians "favored nation" status in exchange for a relaxation of its immigration policies, with particular emphasis on persons of the Jewish faith. The Russians rejected the American demand for liberalization of their immigration policies as meddling in their internal affairs.

Apparently, things have changed. The congressional delegation will discuss not only immigration but matters concerning fishing rights, Russian criminal justice and trade in general.

But if things have changed in Russia since Fish postponed his trip in mid-January, so have things changed elsewhere and Fish says he doesn't want the Russians to get the wrong ideas about America's willingness to keep its commitments.

They may be under the miscalculation at this time in the post-Vietnam period of the will of the United States to keep up a strong defense and keep up its commitments," Fish said. "I will certainly make this very plain to them that our will is very strong."

And despite Russian reluctance to discuss immigration policies, Fish thinks it should be on the agenda. "Their harassment of their own citizens affects United States-Soviet relations whether they like it or not," Fish declared.

Fish will be making the trip to Russia during the Memorial Holiday recess of congress when most congressmen will be either out politicking in their home districts or relaxing.

Fish, however, thinks the trip to Russia is worth the sacrifice for a number of reasons. "I think it's very important for a member of congress to take his own assessment of the Soviet government and its people," he said. "A number of us feel that when you're dealing with a closed society such as the Soviet Union the more parliamentary business that you can conduct the better. It helps bring Soviet officials (and American as well) a little closer to reality with every visit."

Fish said the congressional committee has asked for a "parliamentary exchange" with members of the Supreme Soviet (the legislative branch in Russian national government).

Fish hopes to also discuss the Mideast situation with Russian officials. "It depends on who we get to see. There are people there called the USA Institute. It's a sort of think tank on American affairs. If we get a chance to meet with them I imagine we'll be discussing a wide range of issues," Fish said.

The congressional party is due back in Washington June 2.

Coed's Kick Foils Attacker

NEW PALTZ

A State University College at New Paltz coed fought off a would-be robber who attacked and began choking her in a laundry room in Deyo Hall Wednesday night, state police said today.

According to authorities, the 23-year-old coed, who was not indentified, was doing her laundry at about 9:30 p.m. when a black male entered the laundry room, jumped her and began choking her, and demanded money.

The coed kicked her attacker in the groin, police said and fled from the room to contact authorities as he was recovering from the pain. He was gone when police reached the laundry room.

Authorities described their suspect as about 5-feet, 8-inches tall, weighing about 140 pounds, wearing blue jeans. Investigation of the robbery attempt continued today.

Meanwhile, in other area police matters:

Rhinebeck State Police arrested five Bard College students they said allegedly stole one-third of the emergency oxygen supply at Northern Dutchess Hospital on Sunday.

The students were identified as Steven Puchie, 20, of the Bronx; Michael Shea, 19, of Fitchburg, Mass.; Ruth Hill, 19, of Manhattan; Margaret Oldach, 19, of Southbury, Md.; and Sandra Walton, 19, of Ne Caanan, Conn.

According to troopers, the students, with apparently no logical motive in mind, allegedly took six high pressure oxygen tanks valued at about $250 early Sunday. The tanks were stored in a fenced enclosure which the students scaled. Police found the oxygen tanks the same morning in a wooded area about a mile from the hospital.

The investigation continued and culminated in the arrests of the five students Wednesday afternoon on petit larceny charges. Following arraignment before Rhinebeck Town Justice Joseph Waters, the studdents were released in the custody of the Bard College dean of students.

Detectives with the Kingston Police Department charged 17-year-old John David VanBrink of 15 Harwich Street with fifth degree criminal possession of a controlled substance after he allegedly sold some three and one-half ounces of marijuana to an undercover agent for $110 in an area off Albany Avenue.

Detectives said they also confiscated more than four ounces of alleged marijuana and 23 pots in which marijuana was allegedly growing at VanBrink's home, leading to the possession charge.

The growing marijuana had apparently been recently planted and had reached no appreciable size, detectives indicated.

Following arraignment, the youth was held without bail pending court action.

Detectives said the arrest culminated a week-long investigation under the direction of Police Chief Julius M. Glassman.

★ ★ ★

Ulster County Sheriff's Department detectives and Shandaken Town Police arrested a 17-year-old Shandaken youth who was not identified because of possible youthful offender status ahd charged him with third degree burglary.

Deputies said the youth had allegedly broken into the home of Richard Vetter in the Town of Shandaken community of Woodland Valley late Wednesday and had taken money in the break-in. The amount of money taken was not specified, but deputies said most of it was recovered.

Arraigned before Shandaken Town Justice Richard Murphy, the youth was confined in jail in lieu of $1,000 bail.

Ulster Proposal Gains Vocal Approval

TOWN OF ULSTER

The majority of Town of Ulster residents attending an informational meeting Wednesday night voiced approval of a proposal to increase the number of town councilmen from two to four and relieve the two town justices of their legislative duties.

Proponents of the plan said the work load for the town justices is too large and that a conflict of interest exists when a justice has to rule on a law he helped enact.

It was also pointed out that the justices would be able to bring increased revenue to the town through the courts, if they had more time to devote to judicial duties. The new efficiency would more than offset the cost of the two new councilmen, estimated to be about $8,000, proponents claim.

Supervisor Carmine Sabino opposed the proposal however, claiming that a small government is closer to the people. "Because government is there, let's not mandate more services," he said.

Members of the board did not agree however. Councilmen Anthony Cicoria and Edward R. Crosby Sr. favored the proposal with Cicoria pointing out that Town Justice Arthur Reilly couldn't attend the informational meeting because he was in court. "There is just so much a body can do," he said. Crosby maintained that the justices were just "too busy" with judicial matters to give the time increasing town business demands today.

Town Justice Sherwood Davis, who first sought public input on the question, said he was not trying to evade responsibility and that he "liked to work hard." But, he sees a need to give more serious thought to government. "We don't want to plan for a great future, we want a great now," he said.

In addition to Sabino, the only voices against the proposal were those of several senior citizens who objected to the additional funds required for the new councilmen.

Spending more money doesn't necessarily give good government," one said.

Proponents suggested that "if the town board thinks we need four councilmen, go ahead," with one man suggesting that "the judges take care of their judgeship" and that one of the new councilmen come from the western end of the town which is not represented by anyone on the board from that area.

"For the efficiences we would get the money will be many times returned," concluded another.

With the two town justices and the two councilmen already voicing approval of the proposal it looks like the town board will act favorably on the plan. If it does, one justice would be up for election to a four-year term in November as well as two councilmen, one for a four-year and one for a two-year term. Then, in 1977, two councilmen and one justice would be elected.

Paddock Company Bids On Pool

KINGSTON

Six companies picked up plans and specifications for the proposed new county pool in New Paltz but only one—Paddock Pool Builders of Albany bid on the project.

Paddock, which is also constructing a new pool in the City of Kingston this summer bid $298,071 for the county project.

The L-shaped pool will be located at the Ulster County Park site off Libertyville Road.

Plans for the pool and park have been long in the making with a $645,000 bond issue for the park approved last August by the Ulster County Legislature. About $250,000 in federal-revenue sharing funds will be used in addition to the bond issue.

Pending approval of the county's Youth and Recreation Committee, the legislature will act on acceptance of the bid at its June 19 meeting. If the board approves it, construction will begin immediately with a fal completion date in mind. The pool would then be open for use in the summer of 1976, according to Building Superintenddent Kenneth J. Whispell.

Site development has been underway for several months with the county highway department doing much of the work.

In addition to the pool, plans call for a kiddie pool three connecting winterized buildings to house a snack bar, first aid room and administration office. Also men's and women's bath houses complete with showers, toilets and changing rooms.

Suit Is Settled

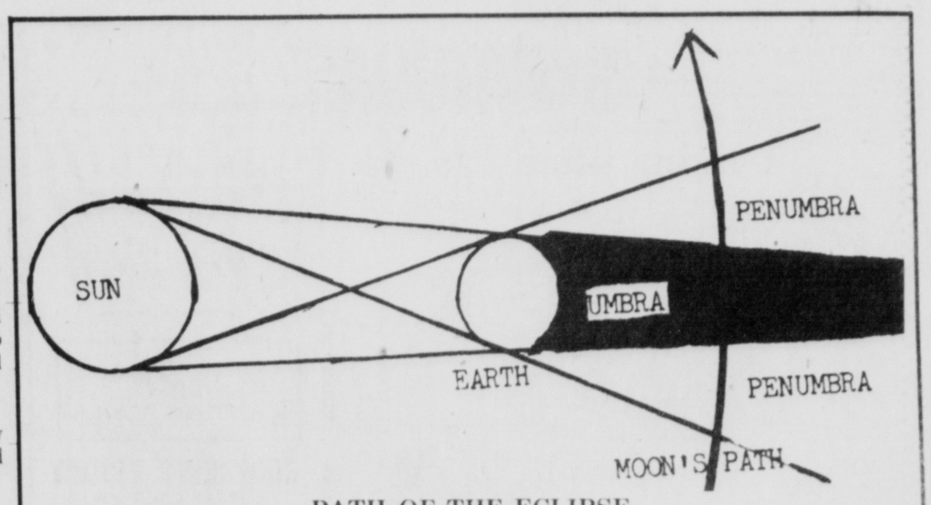

KINGSTON

A $46,000 settlement for personal injuries due to gunshot, was announced in Ulster County Supreme Court Tuesday.

August Galli and his wife, Rose, represented by David Barnovitz, brought suit against seven downstate teenagers who reportedly were firing .22 rifles on Aug. 26, 1972 in Delaware County, when a bullet struck Galli in the left side.

The boys were allegedly shooting the rifles across a pond on the property of Michael DeBenedetto of Vega when a bullet reportedly deflected and struck Galli who was standing on his own adjacent summer property.

Supreme Court Justice J.J. Battisti presided at the two-day trial in which the defendants were: Michael DeBenedetto Jr., Michael D. Benedetto Sr. and Ruth DeBenedetto, represented by Miller, Ouimette and Moran; Edmond Gio, represented by Cook and Tucker; Charles Limbach, represented by Logue and O'Connor; Robert McDonald, represented by Mead, Dore and Voute; Robert Mastronardi, who had Martin Rosen as counsel.

PATH OF THE ECLIPSE

Saturday Midnight Eclipse Will Be Visible in Ulster

STONE RIDGE

An eclipse of the moon will be visible in Ulster County beginning at midnight Saturday, according to Richard C. Smith, associate professor of earth sciences at Ulster County Community College.

The full eclipse will be visible between 1:03 a. m. and 2:33 a. m. Sunday. It should be the best viewing of an eclipse in Ulster County for some years.

With clear weather, local residents should have no difficulty viewing the eclipse with the naked eye, reports Smith.

The moon will begin to pass through the earth's shadow — or umbra — at midnight Saturday and will be completely within the umbra from 1:03 a. m. to 2:33 a. m. Sunday morning.

This lunar eclipse will be visible throughout the hemisphere where the moon is above the horizon. Here in Ulster County the moon will be near its highest point for the evening at the beginning of totality, says Smith. During this total eclipse some of the longer light rays — the red rays — are bent by the atmosphere and cause the surface of the moon to take on a reddish hue, which is best seen with the naked eye.

Starting at midnight, the earth's shadow may be seen spreading steadily across the lunar surface and a close observation will reveal a curved edge of the shadow, which indicates the earth is spherical. This was recognized by the Greeks 2500 years ago.

The average number of total umbral eclipses per decade is about eight, according to Professor Smith. The maximum number possible in any one year is three and the minimum is zero. The next total eclipse of the moon will be next Nov. 18. There won't be another until March 24, 1978.

Rosendale Democrats Start Screening

ROSENDALE

Gabe Kajeckas, chairman of the Town of Rosendale Democratic Committee, has begun a screening process for candidates for town and county office.

Enrolled Democrats who wish to be considered are asked to contact Lou Klein, Mike Mullarkey, Ed Schwall or Kajeckas. Town offices to be filled include supervisor, councilman, tax assessors (two-and four-year terms), tax collector, town justice, town clerk, and superintendent of highways. In addition, persons who wish to run for the county legislature from the Esopus-Rosendale district should submit notice of their interest and eligibility to the committee as soon as possible.

The screening committee will submit its report to the full town committee at 8 p.m. Tuesday, May 27, at the Community Building in Maple Hill. A joint meeting of the Esopus and Rosendale committees will be held at 8 p.m., Thursday, May 29, in the Rifton Firehouse to select Democratic candidates from the Esopus-Rosendale district for the county legislature.

The Rosendale Democratic caucus, open to all enrolled Democrats in the town, will select candidates for town office at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, June 3, in the Community Building in Maple Hill.

Ford Expects to Run and Win

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford, riding the political crest of the Mayaguez incident, says he will formally announce his candidacy for the presidency within a month and he expects to win the election.

Ford has been putting his ducks in a row with Republican party national, state and county leaders in hopes of gaining broad support when he seeks the GOP nomination.

Several key Republicans said that Ford's handling of the rescue of the American merchant ship Mayaguez and its 40-member crew had boosted his stock as a strong leader and cut into the opposition of the conservative wing of his party.

Ford and Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania are talking up Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., to head the Democratic ticket. Scott said Humphrey is the "one good candidate" the Democrats have. He said the others are "with a few exceptions, a parade of pygmies." Former President Richard M. Nixon defeated Humphrey in the 1968 election.

The President gave a dinner at the White House Tuesday evening for Senate and House Republican leaders. On Wednesday morning, he assessed party chances in a session with 10 Republican senators who are seeking reelection.

Later in the afternoon, Ford assembled a group of State and Republican county chairmen and committee members. Right off the bat he volunteered the information that he is "absolutely a candidate."

The word was relayed to reporters by William V. Lawson, chairman of the Memphis-Shelby County group, and others.

"He indicated that probably within a month he would make his formal announcement," said Lawson.

"He seemed quite confident that he would obtain the nomination and win" the election, Lawson added.

Some of the delegation indicated Ford had held off formal candidacy because of the technicalities of the campaign spending reform law. Nancy Apgar, chairman of the Oklahoma City-Oklahoma County organization, said the move was "politically smart."

She said she agreed with her party colleagues that the Mayaguez incident "certainly strengthened" Ford's position in Oklahoma City, but she said "in Oklahoma there is really quite a groundswell for Ronald Reagan."

Council Session

The Kingston Common Council meets tonight in special session at 7:30 to set a public hearing on a prospective urban renewal redeveloper. Richard Roth seeks approval to purchase the Gulf gas station property on North Front Street for establishment of a retail business. The aldermen meet at city hall, 1 Meadow Street.

Protest Over Newspaper Ban

LISBON (UPI) — The beleaguered Socialist party called a mass protest rally today in the most serious challenge to Portugal's leftwing military government since the armed forces came to power a year ago.

The military government, which has been moving steadily to the left since assuming power, began talks into the possibility of banning all political parties in Portugal.

Socialist leader Mario Soares urged supporters to demonstrate in downtown Lisbon against a government decree closing the Socialist newspaper, Republica.

Residents of Lisbon expressed fear that the rally could degenerate into violence, but a military spokesman denied reports the armed forces had been placed on alert.

Socialist leader Mario Soares called a morning news conference to outline plans for his party's confrontation with the military.

He was expected to announce whether he would resign from the coalition cabinet to protest rising Communist influence in the government, mass media and organized labor.

Soares told President Francisco da Costa Gomes Wednesday he would boycott cabinet meetings until the government let the paper resume publication. Socialists have picketed the Republica building since the dispute arose.

The military regime's ruling Supreme Council met for about 15 hours Wednesday and today.

Sources close to the government said the Communistinfluenced council was considering outlawing all political parties and assuming total government control.

But a council communique issued after the conference did not mention the Socialists by name or Soares' threatened resignation.

The communique said the council was "surprised at the attitude" of "partisan forces in convoking demonstrations of protest and displeasure."

On the Republica shutdown, the communique said the council "will use all its power" to find a solution "within the shortest time to provide the guarantee of the right of freedom of information consecrated in the law."

Communist leader Alvaro Cunhal, a strong supporter of the government, said on national television the military regime would "never be a dictatorship" even if it bans political parties.

The government closed Republica, one of the last noncommunist dailies in the country, on Tuesday after Communist workers seized the newspaper building and took the editor hostage.

At least three other parties — the Popular Democrats, Monarchists and a Maoist group — passed resolutions in support of the Socialists.

The Socialists and Popular Democrats won 64 percent of the vote in the April 25 elections for a constituent assembly, but the military has refused to give the two parties corresponding influence in the coalition cabinet.

Know Your Newspaper Better

Equal to the Front Page . . .

That's what studies have shown about the Classified page! Yes, the number of readers who read the "want ads" on the Classified page is equal to the number of readers of the front page. Don't you yourself look at the classified ads every issue? If you are one of the few who doesn't, you are missing both news and opportunity.

Service and News

The classified page provides both. The service of who has what for sale, rent or trade, for how much and where. The news that all advertising carries . . . about products, services, bargains. Just reading the classifieds is fun, and informative. We feel sure you must be a classified page reader . . . keep it up. But if you are one of the few who isn't, try it . . . this issue!

Cablevision, Zoning Occupy Woodstock

WOODSTOCK — A proposed increase in cablevision rates in the town and an amendment to the zoning ordinance—matters which were the subject of public hearings held last week—were approved at a meeting of the Woodstock Town Board this week.

The board approved an increase in monthly cablevision rates from $5.95 to $6.95.

In amending the zoning ordinance, the board voted to include in Section 3A—under the heading of business uses—health services facilities, with the facilities allowed in RA and R1 zoned areas by special permit, and in C1 zoned areas.

In other matters, the board reappointed Gregory Gebert, Craig Grazier, Paul Keller and Peter Koch to the Environmental Conservation Commission. Dagmar Arnold was appointed chairman of the Civic Arts Council to replace Herbert Mayer, who resigned as chairman, but who is remaining on the council.

Approval was granted for town officials to attend seminars at Cornell University June 4 to 6 and for renewal of the application for state funds for the town's youth recreation project.

It was reported that a master list of operators of underground facilities in the town is now being compiled in the town clerk's office.

The June 17th meeting of the town board will be held at the former Catholic church property on Rock City Road, since the town hall will be in use for grievance day that day.

IBM Trial Started, Six Years in Making

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Are you ready?" the judge asked.

"Yes," the prosecutor answered. "Dr. Fernbach, take the stand, please."

And so it began, after six years and four months in the making — the Justice Department's antitrust action against International Business Machines Corp. (IBM).

Sidney Fernbach of Alameda, Calif., a physicist and computer expert, Wednesday was the first of 120 witnesses expected to testify for the government.

IBM, fighting the Justice Department's effort to break up its alleged monopoly of the general-purpose computer market, plans to call 402 witnesses.

The nonjury trial before David Edelstein, chief U. S. district judge in Manhattan, may take longer than two years to complete. Millions of pages of documents are to be submitted as evidence in the complex case.

Fernbach told the court he heads the computer section of the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory at Livermore, Calif., near Berkeley.

Raymond Carlson, the chief of the Justice Department team, asked the witness about his previous computer-advisory positions, including work for the Atomic Energy Commission and the National Science Foundation, in an effort to establish his credentials as an expert.

Fernbach said he habitually consults with top industry experts in his search for the best available computers.

"I keep up with the state of the art in any way I can," he said, adding with a smile that, "It was assumed I was knowledgeable about all computers."

Testimony began after IBM had concluded two days of opening statements in which it denied using illegal methods to take the lead in the general-purpose computer market. Its success in the field, IBM lawyers said, is due to sound business procedures and judgment and some "good fortune."

Carlson said in his opening remarks that IBM, by the use of various illegal marketing methods, dominated 70 percent of the computer market in 1972.

"No other company had 10 percent of that market," he said.

IBM's marketing procedures, the size of the general-purpose computer market and the extent of IBM's share of it appear to be the key issues in the trial.

The civil suit was filed by the Justice Department in January, 1969, on the last business day of the Johnson administration. IBM has yet to lose in more than a dozen antitrust actions brought against it by the government and its competitors.

Lebanon Calm Breaks, Anarchy Seems Near

A cease-fire between warring Palestinian guerrillas and Lebanese nationalists collapsed today and renewed fighting spread in the outer suburbs of Beirut. The nation has only a caretaker government and appeared near anarchy.

At least 17 persons have died and 100 others were wounded in three days of fighting that has brought protest general strikes that have almost paralyzed the nation.

A combined delegation of parliamentary deputies, political and relgious leaders attempted to reach the main battleground of Dikwaneh, stronghold of the right-wing Phalangist Party, but was driven back by gunfire.

Members of the ill-fated peace committee reported the Palestinians in the Tal Zaater refugee camp were firing rockets into Ashrafiyeh and were taking fire from the same area which adjoins Dikwaneh.

President Suleiman Franjieh met with the Lebanese army commander, Gen. Iskandar Ghanem and outgoing Defense Minister Joseph Skaf to discuss ways of ending the fighting.

The main clashes were between the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) and the Phalangists, a rightist and predominantly Christian political party which has its own armed forces.

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING THE ZONING ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF KINGSTON, NEW YORK
AMENDMENT NO. 72
WHEREAS, re-application of the Order of St. Anne for a change in zoning classification of property located at 265-287 Broadway and 289-295 Broadway from its present classification as an "C-2" zone to the new classification of "R-5" zone has been duly considered; and
WHEREAS, after such study, the Common Council has made the finding that the suggested amendment of the said Zoning Ordinance would be in conformity with the comprehensive plan of the City of Kingston, New York, particularly since said parcel falls within close proximity to a business district; and
WHEREAS, it has come to the attention of this Common Council that the use of the said premises under such reclassification of "R-5" will be for the erection of Senior Citizen Housing; and
WHEREAS, this Council makes the finding that the location of Senior Citizen Housing at the premises described would be a particularly desirable location and would be in conformity with the Comprehensive Plan of the City of Kingston, New York, and that the land layout lends itself to the development thereof in accordance with the housing plan proposed; and
WHEREAS, this Council further finds that there is availability of all proper utilities to support such a development and that such a development would not create traffic congestion in the area.
NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED, by the Common Council of the City of Kingston, New York, as follows:
SECTION 1. That an Ordinance known as the City of Kingston Zoning Ordinance adopted November 12, 1963, be amended as follows:
SECTION 2. That the Zoning Ordinance of the City of Kingston, New York, classifying the area encompassing premises located at 265-287 Broadway and 289-295 Broadway, more fully described below as being a zone "C-2" designation, be and hereby is amended to a zone "R-5" designation, and that the Zoning Map of the City of Kingston, New York, dated November 12, 1963, a part of the aforesaid Ordinance, be amended designating the area encompassing such parcel as zone "R-5":
"All that piece or parcel of land situated, lying and being in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster, State of New York, situated at 265-287 Broadway and 289-295 Broadway; more particularly described in a topographic map of the Order of St. Anne, prepared by A.S. Brinnier, P.E., L.L.S. on April 6, 1966, a copy of which map is hereto affixed and made a part hereof."
SECTION 3. That this ordinance shall be effective from and after the date of its passage, approval and publication, as provided by law.
Submitted to the Mayor by the City Clerk this 7th day of May, 1975.
Approved by the Mayor this 7th day of May, 1975.

CITY OF KINGSTON
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that the Common Council of the City of Kingston will, in accordance with the provisions of Section 507(2)(d) of the General Municipal Law of the State of New York, as amended, hold a public hearing on June 3, 1975, at 7:00 P.M., at the Common Council Chambers, City Hall, Kingston, New York, to consider the approval of a proposed disposition of Disposition Parcel 30 and the existing structures thereon (herein collectively referred to as the "Property") in the Uptown Renewal Project, NY R-121 to Maury Colow, residing at Shady, P.O. Box 67, Woodstock, New York. The Property is also known as 157-159 and 161-163 Green Street, Kingston, New York.
Disposition Parcel 30 is to be used for office purposes in accordance with the Urban Renewal Plan for the Project. Maury Colow contemplates the restoration of the two 2-story frame structures on Disposition Parcel 30.
Disposition Parcel 30 is a parcel of approximately 9,564.86 square feet in area generally located on the northwest corner of Green Street and Lucas Avenue, and is more fully described as follows:
Beginning at the corner formed by the intersection of the Northerly street line of Lucas Avenue with the Westerly street line of Green Street and running:
(1) thence from said point of beginning, along the Northerly street line of Lucas Avenue, South 64° 39' 20" West, 113.75 feet to the Southeasterly corner of lands now or formerly of Yetta Cohen;
(2) thence along the Easterly line of lands now or formerly of Yetta Cohen, the following courses and distances: North 24° 41' 50" West, 39.78 feet to a point;
(3) thence North 22° 34' 30" West, 36.70 feet to a point on the Southerly line of lands now or formerly of Frank and Lucille Noble;
(4) thence along the Southerly line of lands now or formerly of Frank and Lucille Noble, the following courses and distances: North 51° 39' 45" East, 87.66 feet to a point;
(5) thence North 59° 08' 30" East, 16.75 feet to a point on the Westerly street line of Green Street;
(6) thence along the Westerly street line of Green Street, South 30° 51' 30" East, 98.21 feet to the place of beginning.
All bearings are referred to Grid North for the New York (East Zone) Plane Coordinate System.
Maury Colow has previously been found by the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency to be qualified and financially responsible to purchase and restore the Property. The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency has, in accordance with its established rules and precedures, duly designated Maury Colow as a qualified and eligible redeveloper of the Property, and the Common Council of the City of Kingston has approved Maury Colow as a qualified and eligible redeveloper.
The price to be paid by Maury Colow for the Property is $13,600.00.
The essential terms of the Disposition Agreement to be executed by and between the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency and Maury Colow is to deliver to the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency prior to or simultaneously with the execution of the Disposition Agreement a good faith deposit of $1,360.00 as security for the performance of his obligations under the Disposition Agreement; to pay $13,600.00 simultaneously with the delivery of the Deed; to submit Restoration Plans for the restoration of the Property within two (2) months from the date of the Disposition Agreement; to submit satisfactory evidence of equity capital and commitments for mortgage financing necessary for the restoration of the Property within thirty (30) days after the date of approval of the Restoration Plans; to take title to the Property within sixty (60) days after the date of approval of the Restoration Plans, or on August 15, 1975, whichever date is later; to commence restoration of the Property within thirty (30) days after the date of the Deed; and to complete restoration within twelve (12) months after the date of the Deed.
The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency proposes to enter into the Disposition Agreement with Maury Colow on or after June 3, 1975.
The Disposition Agreement will be available for public examination at the office of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, 436 Broadway, Kingston, New York for a period of ten (10) days, commencing May 15, 1975 and terminating May 30, 1975, between the hours of 8:30 A.M. and 4:30 P.M., Monday through Friday.
The Uptown Renewal Project, NY R-121 is generally located between Esopus Creek and the New York Central Railroad (Mountain Division) to the north, Lucas Avenue and John Street to the south, and Joy's Lane to the west, in the City of Kingston.

Your Astrograph

For Friday, May 23, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You may fumble the ball a few times, but you'll be able to reach a business goal you've been trying to wrap up.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your first ideas won't be your best ones today. Sound them out on one whose opinions you trust first.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't price your goods or services too low today. Don't be greedy. Just be sure you set a true value, fair to all.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You may make a change in your social plans that will be disappointing at first. The result of the switch will prove to be a pleasant surprise.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A get together with some of your closest friends will prove much more pleasant than being with casual acquaintances.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The good news you receive today will not be all you had expected. Accept it. Know that something is better than nothing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll be dealing with VIP's today. Don't be disappointed because you don't get everything you want. What you do obtain will be generous.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't delay that do-it-yourself project for the home because you can't afford to complete it now. Get it started. The means will later be available.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Business dealings or commercial acquisitions come naturally to you today, if you handle details personally and don't buy things sight unseen.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Though your mate's suggestions are not on a par with yours today, she deserves an "A" for effort. She's thinking of you first.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Ignore the temptation to "coast" at work today. You're in a good cycle to get things done effectively. It would be a shame to waste it.

PISCES (Feb. 30-March 20) In a situation where you share an interest, you'll cause your own problems by being indifferent. Your part of the profit will be smaller.

Your Birthday

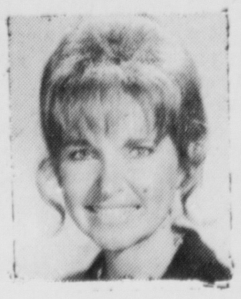

May 23, 1975

More opportunity than you've been exposed to for a long time will be coming to you this year. You will profit by it if you work hard and not take it for granted.

Jean Adams TEEN FORUM

By Jean Adams

ATTENTION: (Q.) I have fallen in love with a sophomore boy. He is a nice guy but will not talk to me when he is around other guys. What should I do to get his attention?—In love in Indiana.

(A.) Do not try to get the boy to leave his male friends to talk to you. This would embarrass him and very likely might cause him to be less friendly toward you.

Do not make any demands upon him until you and he know each other a lot better.

But DO be friendly whenever you see him, whether he is alone or with others. And arrange to see him and be seen by him frequently.

This will tell him that you would like to see more of him. Maybe he will take your hint.

ALONE: (Comment) You tell people it is a mistake for a girl and a boy to be together in a house when none of their parents are there. I disagree with you.

My boy friend visits me often when only we two are in my house. My parents, who both work and have to be away a lot, encourage him to visit me so I won't be alone so much of the time.

We don't have sex, and I think that teen-agers who do so in such a situation must be pretty irresponsible.—Responsible in Texas.

(A.) Congratulations to you and your boy friend for your mutual respect and self-control.

Congratulations to your parents for realizing you can be trusted.

The advice I give here fits MOST boys and girls. It does not always fit all of them. There are exceptions to most good rules. Your arrangement appears not to be a mistake for you.

But my mail still tells me that it is dangerous for most boys and girls to be together in an otherwise empty house.

(Write to Jean Adams, care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Every letter is read, but because of the great number received Jean Adams cannot send personal answers.)

Win at Bridge

Good Play Beats Politeness

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South had been taught to say "Thank you, partner" irrespective of what cards his partner put down as dummy. This time the dummy was well worth that polite, but unnecessary remark.

	NORTH (D) 22
	♠ K 10 7 5 ♥ K J 3 ♦ 7 ♣ A K Q J 2
WEST		EAST
♠ A ♥ 9 7 4 2 ♦ 9 8 3 ♣ 10 8 7 5 4		♠ 4 3 2 ♥ Q 10 8 6 5 ♦ 10 6 5 2 ♣ 6
	SOUTH ♠ Q J 9 8 6 ♥ A ♦ A K Q J 4 ♣ 9 3

Both vulnerable

West	North	East	South
	1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	4 N.T.
Pass	5 ♦	Pass	6 ♠
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead — 5 ♣

When the hand was over and South had been set, North remarked, "It is a shame they taught you politeness instead of bridge."

South's play had been short and unsuccessful. He won the club in dummy and led a trump. West took his ace and led a second club. East was unkind enough to ruff and that was all there was.

Just little thought before playing to trick two might well have warned South of his danger. A little more thought would have shown him how to guard against a club ruff.

It wouldn't have to be much thought at all. Just a quick look at dummy's king of hearts.

Then South could have led a heart to his ace, cashed his ace of diamonds, ruffed his low diamond, discarded his last club on the king of hearts and then gone after trumps with the club danger a thing of the past.

Dynamite Carrier

It's a lonesome job for U.S. Army Sgt. Gregory Hentschel of the Ft. Jackson, S. C. Army bomb disposal unit as he carries a box containing a 50-pound dynamite bomb out of the Orangeburg County court house. (UPI)

Clumsy Rigging Job Saves Courthouse

ORANGEBURG, S.C. (UPI) — Authorities say old dynamite or a clumsy rigging job probably prevented a homemade bomb from exploding and demolishing the Orangeburg County courthouse and a church kindergarten next door.

The fuse had burned to within several inches of the 95-stick dynamite bomb when it was found Wednesday morning in the basement of the three-story courthouse which has about 100 office workers during business hours.

"Whoever did this had the intention of blowing up the courthouse, there is no doubt about that," said Sheriff Vance Boone.

Boone said the 50-pound bomb, about the size of a typewriter, was powerful "enough to level the courthouse and anything near it."

Officials said the dynamite was of pre-1968 vintage and its age, or the would-be bomber's ineptness in rigging the device, was all that kept it from exploding.

The bomb was found about 8:30 a.m. by Ernest Ulmer, a courthouse maintenance supervisor, who was investigating a broken window in the basement. The bomb apparently was tossed through the window Tuesday night.

Police quickly cleared the courthouse and all surrounding buildings, including three carloads of children from the kindergarten, and called a team of Army demolition experts from Ft. Jackson, about 50 miles away.

The bomb was hauled in a special van to an empty field near the airport and detonated without incident.

Authorities said they were at a loss to explain a motive for the bombing attempt.

Boone said he had "no way of knowing" whether the incident was connected with the daily marches of blacks protesting the police killing of a black youth on May 10.

"I am not an expert," said Boone. "I hope it isn't connected."

Urges Tough Line With Third World Countries

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Daniel Patrick Moynihan, President Ford's choice for ambassador to the United Nations, has urged the United States to take a tough line with Third World countries.

Moynihan, 48, is a former bartender and Harvard professor who was ambassador to India from 1971 to 1973 and has served every President — Democrat and Republican alike —since the late John Kennedy.

Ford announced his intention to nominate him for the U.N. post Wednesday.

Like the man he will succeed —former newsman John Scali —Moynihan is colorful and controversial. He touched off an uproar in 1970 with a memo urging President Nixon to treat American Negroes with "benign neglect" after serious national race riots and tensions.

In the mainstream of liberal Democratic politics most of his life —he was one of the architects of President Lyndon Johnson's "Great Society" —he joined the Nixon administration in 1969 and has advocated more conservative policies of late.

In a recent article for Commentary magazine, Moynihan urged the United States to pursue a hard line towards the Third World at the United Nations, where developing nations, most of which are nonwhite, recently organized their political strength. Those elements ousted Nationalist China from the world body, prevented South Africa from participating in the last General Assembly and were addressed by Palestinian Liberation Organization leader Yassar Arafat.

Moynihan urged the United States to stop appeasing radical Third World elements and oppose them instead.

Our New U.N. Ambassador

"It is time that the American spokesman came to be feared in international forums for the truths he might tell," Moynihan said in the article. Particular targets would be those leaders who preached liberal views abroad but held political prisoners at home.

That tough talk fits the mold of what another former Harvard professor, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, recently said makes a perfect U.S. ambassador.

Moynihan's policy prescription could throw him into direct confrontation with Third World leaders when the U.N. General Assembly holds a special session this September to consider organizational changes and demand improved economic relations between rich and poor nations.

Moynihan was incensed when his "benign neglect" memo concerning American negroes was published by news media. His explanation in a March 2, 1970 press conference could shed light on the type of policy he will pursue at the United Nations.

"What I was saying is that there are ways in which a society can pay more or less attention to extreme opinion," he told the news conference. "You can pay more or less attention to such phenomenon as the Black Panthers. I was saying the less attention paid, the better, because this is not helping anybody and it does not reflect the true state of events which is a state of very considerable importance and unprecedented progress."

Moynihan had been a life-long liberal Democrat until he joined the Nixon administration in 1969. Asked then how long he thought he would last in a Republican administration, his face lit up with his best stage Irishman's grin as he replied, "Well, my friends think I won't last six months. My enemies think I will."

Iranians Hunt for Murderers of Two Americans

TEHRAN (UPI) — The Iranian government, vowing "no action will be spared," hunted today for the leftwing assassins of two American military advisers.

An underground Marxist group claimed responsibility for gunning down Air Force Col. Paul Shaffer, 45, of Dayton, Ohio, and Air Force Lt. Col. Jack Turner, 45, of Christopher, Ill., as they drove to work Wednesday.

"There is no doubt it was a premediated assassination by professional murderers," a U.S. embassy official said.

An Iranian government spokesman said "no action will be spared to find the murderers and bring them to justice."

Both men were married. Shaffer had two children and Turner had three.

The embassy said the victims had left for work in their chauffeured automobile when a car pulled across their path about 6:30 a.m. A second car rammed them from the rear.

A spokesman said three gunmen approached the advisers' automobile, ordered the Iranian driver to lie on the floor and fired bullets into the officers. They escaped in a third car.

An anonymous telephone caller told UPI the killings were the work of "The Organization of the Crusaders of the Iranian Nation," an outlawed Marxist group.

The caller said "retaliatory steps will continue to be taken" to avenge executions of nine leftists convicted of murder, arson, terrorism and conspiracy to topple the Iranian government.

The government said the assailants "found their evil inspiration from outside Iran's borders." In Washington, Iranian Ambassador Ardeshir Zhadi called the killers "self-seeking Marxists" inspired by foreigners.

Schaefer and Turner were attached to the 1,000-man Military Assistance Advisory Group, which administers U.S. military aid.

Three years ago, the Crusaders placed explosives under the car of Gen. Harold Price, who then headed the advisory mission's Air Force section. Price survived and the assailants escaped.

Kissinger in a Face-to-Face Confrontation

ANKARA (UPI) — Turkish Foreign Minister Ihsan Caglayangil warned Secretary of State Henry Kissinger today that Congress must soon lift its ban on arms shipments to Turkey or face "negative effects."

Kissinger, in a face-to-face confrontation, promised "every effort in restoring our normal defense relations with Turkey."

The top diplomats of Turkey and the United States aired their differences at the opening of the Central Treaty Organization foreign ministers meeting.

The exchange between the longtime defense partners startled some delegates to the meeting, which also included British, Iranian and Pakistani officials.

The Senate voted Monday night to lift the embargo against U.S. arms shipments to Turkey, imposed after Turkey invaded Cyprus last summer. The House will vote on the embargo next month.

Caglayangil apparently was not satisfied.

Taking the podium in the CENTO headquarters building, the foreign minister said, "The attitude of the U.S. Congress in linking the Cyprus problem with the military aid and military equipment supplies to Turkey creates a very regrettable situation which would entail inevitable negative effects on the close cooperation and friendship btween Turkey and the U.S.A."

Caglayangil warned that unless the United States lifted the embargo "within the immediate future, this situation will gain proportions which would seriously imperil our relations."

Such a situation, he said, would mean "negative repercussions" on Turkish and Middle Eastern security.

Earlier Turkey hinted at the possibility of ousting American forces from 27 strategic bases in Turkey unless the arms shipments were resumed.

In reply, Kissinger told the CENTO delegates, "The United States regards Turkey as a valued friend and ally." He pledged "every effort" to restore the arms shipments.

The Ford administration from the start opposed the congressional ban, saying it needlessly riled Turkey and thus tied Kissinger's hands in attempting to work out a settlement on Cyprus between Turkey and Greece, both U.S. allies in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Kissinger planned to confer late today with Caglayangil and Turkish prime minister Suleiman Demirel during breaks in the CENTO meeting in an attempt to settle the Cyprus crisis.

More Americans Evacuating Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — The U.S. Embassy announced today it was evacuating more Americans from Laos Friday in face of what it called outright harassment by Communist troops who were holding hundreds of Americans as virtual prisoners in a compound outside Vientiane.

The embassy said there were not enough planes available to fly out the several hundred Americans it wants removed and that negotiatiions were underway to bring in chartered planes. A Caravelle jet is to fly out the first group of Americans to Bangkok Friday.

The Pathet Lao's Joint Defense Forces announced that the Communists were bringing six artillery pieces and six Russian-made PT76 tanks to within three miles of the Vientiane, ostensibly to protect against any chance of a rightist coup. The Communists have seized all other big towns in Laos.

The Communist takeover of Laos was almost total, and the coalition government abolished a number of government agencies that strengthened Communist control even further. The most powerful rightist members of the coalition government already have resigned and fled into exile.

The student seizure of the 10-acre U.S. Aid and International Development compound in Vientiane was in its second day today. Leftists looted the American commissary and left the ground littered with empty beer cans. About 200 students remained in the compound together with a few Pathet Lao and rightist troops and three Americans.

The Americans, two U.S. Marine guards and a civilian communications specialist, locked themselves in their buildings when the compound was seized and have remained ever since, apparently unharmed.

At a large American housing complex called Kilometer Six, where about 140 families live, the several hundred Americans found themselves under Pathet Laos guard.

At various times during the day the Pathet Lao guards assisted by some government troops, refused to let the Americans out and subjected automobiles that were allowed in and out to tedious searches. The Pathet Lao troops peered under the hoods of cars and poked through suitcases of persons who had previously been scheduled to leave the country.

Production Upturn Near

The nation is on the verge of an upturn in industrial production, but consumers still face rising prices, heavy unemployment and cuts in take-home pay.

In a series of economic reports Wednesday, government and private organizations said:

—Orders of durable goods rose last month by 9.8 percent, the sharpest increase in more than seven years and only the second monthly increase in the past seven months. The increase signals an upturn in industrial production. But steelmen said their production is sagging drastically and forecasts of an upturn in the last three months of the year are "just talk."

—Consumer prices rose .06 of a percent in April, the largest increase in inflation since January. The increase, however, was about half the monthly rate of inflation in 1974.
